

Governor's Aid Measure Again Being Pushed in Badger Senate

Revive Bill and Advance It to Third Reading, 19 to 14

ACTION NEXT WEEK

Lack Enough Power to Force Plan to Final Passage

Madison—(P)—Administration leaders recaptured control of the senate in a swift maneuver today and rallied their forces to the support of Governor LaFollette's original emergency relief bill which a few days ago had been riddled with amendments.

While opposition senators chided them for responding to a "crack of the whip" by the executive office, Progressives and their allies revived the governor's $3,000,000 appropriation measure and advanced it to third reading by a vote of 19 to 14.

Lacking sufficient support to suspend the rules and push the bill through final passage, the majority consented to adjourn until Monday.

Speaker Paul Alfonsi predicted that if the administration's senate forces hold tight on the measure it will be approved by the assembly and make unnecessary any further negotiations by the conference committee appointed to break a deadlock between the two houses.

Progressives Firm

The senate Progressives caucused this morning and stood firm on all roll calls. Pressure had been applied by the governor's office to restore the administration's program.

The bill makes the $3,000,000 appropriation available only for use in counties that cannot meet their own relief burdens. The plan of the Wisconsin county boards association to give all counties at least 10 per cent of the fund was defeated 17 to 16 in the unexpected reversal of votes. Last week the senate had approved an amendment to make the measure a general relief bill.

The appropriation is to be financed by a new 30 per cent surtax on gifts and by raising the surtax on inheritances from 25 to 30 per cent.

Speaker Alfonsi said he believed the assembly would recede from its demand for 50 per cent surtaxes and a $5,000,000 appropriation.

Revised by Rush

Senator Walter Rush (P), Neillsville, brought the administration program back to life by offering it as a substitute to the $5,000,000 measure passed by the assembly. At the same time it was learned that the conference committee had tentatively reached an agreement to make some kind of distribution—less than 10 per cent—to all counties.

Rush declared that an emergency relief plan is the only solution to the state's problem and that if the state government expects to go into the general relief business it would have to raise much more money.

Assault Measure

Bitterly attacking the bill, Senator Maurice Conkley (R), Beloit, contended that the surtaxes will raise $4,800,000, that Governor LaFollette intends to use the proceeds for other purposes.

"The governor told legislators who were in conference with him that he needs $1,500,000 for each year of the biennium to balance his budget," Conkley said. "Here you have it. Let them make the most of it."

Senator Harry Bolens (D), Port Washington, charged the Progressives were "backing up at the crack of the whip and playing cheap politics."

"You are not voting for convictions," he said.

Kosher Butchers Turn Down Peace Overtures

New York—(P)—Rejecting peace overtures by city officials, the Federation of Kosher Butchers said 5,000 kosher shops would close at sundown today in a "shut down" strike against the highest meat prices here since the World war.

William Fellows Morgan, commissioner of markets, tried futilely last night to persuade the federation to call off the strike—climax of widespread protests over rising food charges that wholesalers were exploiting the meat scarcity.

No 'Brutality' to Elderly Inmate at Mendota Hospital

Physician Reports Struggle With Attendants Caused Injuries

Madison—(P)—Governor LaFollette made public today a report by Dr. A. W. Bryan of Madison finding no "brutality" in the treatment of Ole Frederickson, 80, of Whitehall, at Mendota State hospital prior to his death.

Dr. Bryan, investigating the case at the governor's request, said the aged man acquired certain marks on his body while struggling with attendants when he was being admitted, and that he suffered a fracture of the left cheekbone in a fall.

Making reference to findings of the governor's committee on public welfare, Dr. Bryan said "the situation was contributed to by the lack of adequate help and facilities" at the hospital, and suggested more adequate staffing would permit greater "personal service and courtesy to the families of patients."

Frederickson's family asked an investigation following his death at a Whitehall hospital three days after he had been taken to the state institution. After an autopsy, Dr. R. L. MacCormack of Whitehall listed pneumonia and the fracture as causes of death.

Make Recommendations

"The investigator finds no sufficient evidence to warrant the indefinite suspension of any physician, nurse or attendant," Dr. Bryan said. "He would feel, however, that a brief temporary suspension of the admitting attendants would serve to emphasize to the staff as a whole that even the suggestion of excessive force with reference to the insane wards of the state is resented by its citizens as a whole."

In this connection Dr. Bryan noted that Frederickson "struggled violently with the strength of a CIO Factions in Tilt Over Offices"

Tokio Getting Ready for Red Aerial Attack

Guards Civilians in Event Of Raids by Soviet Warplanes

NEW WARNING SEEN

Nipponese Considering More Determined Attacks on Nanking

Tokio—(P)—Japanese defense experts today rushed to completion a chain of bomb-proof, subterranean "fortresses" to safeguard the civilian population against the threat of attack from soviet warplanes.

Stimulated by reports that Russia secretly was sending planes and aviators to aid China in the undeclared war with Japan, thousands of civilians in Japan's teeming cities familiarized themselves with the new type of shelters, believed to be the last word in protective science.

Searched five hours from the nerve centers of the empire, from its great cities, Japanese observers point out, are the Siberian air bases of a "certain foreign power." This three-word phrase, stripped of its diplomatic caution, frankly means soviet Russia.

The model shelter was designed by the engineers of the Tokyo metropolitan police board to accommodate 30 persons for at least three hours, and if necessary, much longer. Thousands of such bomb-proofs are planned for every major city in the country.

Shanghai—(P)—Japanese were reported today to be considering a further stringent warning to foreigners to evacuate Nanking completely or face the danger of even more determined air raids.

The official Central Chinese News agency said the warning was based on the grounds that Japanese efforts to avoid inflicting damage on the interests of third powers at the Chinese capital had caused Japanese planes to be shot down by anti-aircraft guns.

Rear-Admiral Edward J. Marguerite, commander of the United States Yangtze river patrol, ordered the patrol ship Gunam to Wuhan, 30 miles up the river, to give shore leave and sailors a chance for shore leave after their weeks of continuous confinement aboard ship off Nanking's bank.

Aid raid warnings screamed out in Nanking again this morning but the Japanese warplanes apparently centered their attention on points down river.

Three-Week Strike Is Ended at Manitowoc

Manitowoc—(P)—Warehouse and shipping crews of the National Tinselt Co. went back to work today to end a three-week strike. Others of the 200 plant workers will return to their jobs Monday as a result of an agreement, calling for wage increases, reached yesterday.

Meanwhile officials of the strike-bound Aluminum Goods Manufacturing company here became apprehensive corrosion may have set in on over 1,000,000 pounds of finished sheet aluminum in the two Manitowoc plants and 500,000 pounds at Two Rivers, Wis.

Since the strike started a week ago no watchmen have been allowed inside the buildings. H. L. Vits, vice president, said the tons of sheet aluminum would corrode if the storage rooms were not kept heated.

Judith Allen Asks $2,000,000 in Balm Case in California

Los Angeles—(P)—Two million dollars—that's a new high even for Hollywood—was the asking price today for the love of Pugnacious Jack Doyle, the "Irish thrasher."

It will take at least that much, said Film Actress Judith Allen in an alienation suit against Mrs. Delphine Dodge Cromwell Baker Godde, to compensate for loss of Doyle's affection.

Miss Allen is Doyle's wife. She has been granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from the singer-fighter, but it has not been made final.

Her complaint alleges Mrs. Godde, one of the world's richest women, employed "wiles and means" plus several hundred thousand dollars to lure her husband away and prevent a reconciliation.

Mrs. Godde and Doyle announced here last week they planned to leave within a fortnight, for England, where they would seek a divorce from Timothy Godde, former New York banker.

Britain Taking Stern Steps to Curb Terrorism

Outlaws Arab Committee And Starts to Arrest Leading Members

Jerusalem—(P)—Britain struck with an iron fist today to crush a new wave of terrorism in the Holy Land. In a sweeping offensive mandate authorities outlawed the Arab Higher committee and started rounding up its influential members.

With telephone communication from the city suspended and roads heavily guarded, police carried out their large scale operations before dawn.

Silently they surrounded houses of Arab leaders and searched them one after the other. Dr. Hussein Khalidi, mayor of Jerusalem, and Fud Saba, secretary of the higher committee, were reported to have been seized and taken aboard the British cruiser Sussex at Haifa.

The grand mufti of Jerusalem, head of the higher committee, was deprived of his office and rumor was he had been arrested. (There was a report in Cairo, Egypt, that the mufti had fled to the Mosque of Omar and defied authorities to enter and arrest him.) The manager of an Arabian bank was taken into custody.

Roosevelt and Party Resume Their Journey

Lake Crescent, Wash.—(P)—President Roosevelt and his party, awaking after a night of torrential rain, found the sun breaking through and the storm blowing out resumed a motor trip around the Olympic peninsula loop today.

The president breakfasted on brook trout caught from peninsula streams, and the start westward was made at 9:15 a. m. (11:15 a. m. central standard time).

The president's peninsula route today took him around the borders of much of the proposed Olympic National park territory.

League Asked To Name Japs As Aggressors

Delegate Submits Resolution to Advisory Committee at Geneva

3 MAJOR DEMANDS

Subcommittee Meets in Closed Session to Consider Stand

Geneva—(P)—China today flatly asked the League of Nations advisory committee on the Sino-Japanese war, on which the United States is a consultative member, to declare her a victim of Japanese aggression.

The request embodied the draft resolution submitted to the committee by Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, Chinese delegate to the league.

The committee was asked to: 1. "Condemn the violation of international law and contractual obligations" of which the resolution accuses Japan; 2. "Condemn the illegal blockade of the Chinese coast"; 3. Declare the facts "constitute a case of external aggression."

The text of the draft resolution follows: "Whereas Japan has taken the initiative in sending to China powerful armies which have invaded large portions of Chinese territory; "Whereas Japan has proclaimed a maritime blockade of China and her fleet has bombarded various Chinese ports;

"Whereas the Japanese air force has also proceeded in Chinese territory to aerial bombardment, the illegal character of which has been condemned by resolution of this committee on Sept. 27, 1937, which was endorsed by the assembly meeting Sept. 28;

"Whereas Japan has rejected overtures made to her with a view to arrival at a pacific settlement of the dispute;

"Whereas she has particularly declined the invitation made to her Sept. 21 to participate in the work of the advisory committee;

"Whereas Japan has undertaken hostilities in defiance of the provisions of the Washington treaty of Feb. 22, 1922, of the pact of Paris of April 27, 1928, of which she was a signatory, and of the fundamental rules of international law;

Condemns Violations

"Therefore, the advisory committee condemns the violation of international law and contractual obligations: "It condemns the illegal blockade of the Chinese coast; "It declares the facts noted above constitute a case of external aggression against a member of the League of Nations under Article 10 of the covenant."

The resolution was immediately referred to a just created subcommittee, which immediately met in closed session.

Dr. Koo presented the demands just a few minutes after the creation of a subcommittee to formulate a definite plan for action in the conflict. The United States was made a consultative member, participating on the same basis as in the full committee.

Black Expected To Answer Klan Charges Tonight

Widower Seeking Alimony After His Wife Asks Divorce

New Justice to Speak From Friend's Home At Capital

DETAILS SECRET

First Time Justice Has Ever Appealed to People

Washington—(P)—When Associate Justice Hugo L. Black delivers his history-making radio speech to the nation tonight he will speak from the living room of the modest home of a friend in Washington's Chevy Chase section.

This was announced today as Black and his friends completed plans for the unprecedented address, strategically similar to radio talks sometimes made by President Roosevelt. Black's talk will deal with the dispute over his appointment to the supreme court.

The justice will speak into microphones set up in the living room of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude E. Hamilton, Jr., on quiet Tenneyson street.

Black will reply in a radio address at 8:30 p. m. central standard time, to those who have challenged his fitness to serve on the tribunal because of what they allege to be his affiliation with the Ku Klux Klan.

Never in the history of the court has a justice thus carried his case directly to the people.

Many observers here were reminded that similar use of the radio has been made by President Roosevelt, who has outlined in "fireside chats" the plans and policies of his administration. Once he made a direct appeal for support of his court reorganization program.

Three national radio chains will carry Justice Black's speech, making it available to approximately 285 stations. The content of the address remained a closely guarded secret, known only to Black and a few of his close associates.

It was considered highly possible that he would discuss directly the allegations of Klan membership. The question remained, however, whether he might make a complete denial or whether he might say that he once had been a Klansman but long since had renounced his membership.

The principal accusation, made in a series of newspaper articles, is that Black is a life member of the order. The articles alleged he joined the Klan in Alabama in the days before he was elected a Democratic senator from that state.

Will Not Resign

There was no evidence that Black has any notion of resigning his place on the bench, on which he is expected to take his seat Monday. Members of his family have indicated an intention to reside here permanently.

The justice continued in seclusion today, presumably making final revisions on his speech. He left the home of Mrs. Black's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford J. Durr, early yesterday morning, and a friend explained he "wanted to be all by himself somewhere and work on his statement."

Durr, an RFC attorney, handled arrangements for the broadcast. The radio networks assigned Black a half hour in the event his speech exceeds the 20 minutes which he estimated he would require.

A. F. of L. Building Trades Chieftains Hope Green Can Avert Rift in Organization

Majority and Minority in Dispute Over Election Of Officers

Denver—(1)—American Federation of Labor building trades leaders looked to William Green today to settle their bitter internal feud.

Unless the federation president succeeds in making peace between warring factions, they said, the A. F. of L. building trades department probably will split before sundown.

Choice of department officers was the outstanding issue. The majority faction, led by William D. Hutcheson, president of the carpenters, has slated Joseph A. McInerney of the tile scutters for president and Herbert Rivers of the hod carriers for secretary.

The would succeed J. W. Williams of the carpenters and Michael J. McDonough of the plasterers.

Minority faction leaders said they would withdraw from the convention—and probably from the department—if the Hutcheson group insisted upon Rivers' election.

More Strikes Possible

The minority group offered last night to vote for McInerney and ditch McDonough if an acceptable candidate were slated for secretary, but the majority group turned a deaf ear.

All sides agreed a department split would mean a vast increase in construction strikes, with members of warring unions carrying their battles to building projects.

Williams reported to the convention yesterday that even with the department united, strikes caused by rows between unions were so prevalent the last year "that they were a real menace to the building and construction industry."

Other developments

Charles P. Howard, CIO secretary and president of the printers' union, told reporters he would introduce amendments to the A. F. of L. constitution at the convention opening Monday calling for abolition of the executive council's "assumed" authority to suspend member unions and to settle inter-union disputes.

Adoption of these amendments, Howard added, would pave the way for a new union.

GREAT LAKES STRIKE

Milwaukee—(1)—The Great Lakes Transit corporation's freighter, Duluth, was held at its dock today by a sit-down strike which paralyzed other corporation boats at Cleveland, Ohio, and Duluth, Minn.

About 25 members of the Duluth's crew called their sit-down on the vessel an hour before it was due to leave port late yesterday with a cargo of package freight for Erie, Pa.

Simultaneously members of the SIO affiliated national maritime union staged similar strikes aboard the package freighter H. A. Scandrett at Cleveland, and the steamers J. M. Davis and E. W. Chambers at Duluth.

George A. Rodway, international representative of the maritime union, who came here from Chicago to take charge of the strike, said the tieup was intended to affect transit corporation boats in all lake ports.

Hayes Jones, union organizer at Cleveland, said the strike was called in protest against a closed shop agreement signed Wednesday by the Great Lakes Transit corporation, Buffalo, and the A. F. of L. International Seamen's union.

M. Hedley Stone, N.M.U. secretary-treasurer, asserted the working agreement "smacked of collusion" and that the CIO union planned to appeal to the national labor relations board.

MAY INVOKE U. S. LAWS

Cleveland—(1)—The Great Lakes Transit corporation planned to invoke federal mutiny statutes today against CIO sit-down strikes aboard four of its freighters.

The seamen, members of the National Maritime Union, halted work yesterday in protest against a closed shop agreement between the corporation and the rival A. F. of L. International Seamen's union.

Craft affected by the first major labor controversy on the Great Lakes since 1911 are the H. A. Scandrett, in port here; the steamers J. M. Davis and E. W. Chambers, at Duluth, Minn., and the freighter Duluth, at Milwaukee, Wis.

Lewis J. Brennan, the company's Cleveland agent, said the federal court at each port would be asked to order the United States marshal to remove the strikers from the vessels.

Drastic Penalties

Failure to comply with a ship master's orders under the new mutiny statute which Brennan said the company intends to invoke, carries a possible prison sentence of from five to twenty years and fines up to $5,000.

A score of CIO and union seamen joined in the sit-down aboard the Scandrett after the captain ordered the ship moved to a coal clip. The Scandrett's strikers are standing regular watches but otherwise are idle, although a crowd of A. F. of L. seamen gathered at the dock prepared to man the boat if the crew is removed.

Each union claims to represent a majority of the seamen on the company's 11 package freighters covered by the contract. Hayes Jones, N. M. U. organizer, said his organization includes 65 per cent of the line's 400 crew members.

"This is simply a case of sour grapes," said Edward J. Sullivan, A. F. of L. union's representative. "We beat the CIO to the punch in getting a contract."

Martin Cancels Preparations for Flight to Capital

Admits Then Denies He Pointed Revolver at Group of Union Men

Detroit—(1)—Homer Martin, United Automobile Workers of America president who admitted and then denied he had held a revolver on a group of union men protesting his recent dismissal of a large number of union organizers, suddenly cancelled plans to fly to Washington today.

Instead, he announced he would go later to Newark. His place in the Washington plane was taken by Fred C. Pieper, member of the UAW executive board. Pieper, in charge of UAW organization in the southeast, said he was going to confer with CIO heads on "a matter of national importance."

Before cancellation of Martin's reservations in the Washington plane it had been announced he intended to confer with his superior, John L. Lewis, but in Washington there was no knowledge of an engagement between the two labor leaders.

The disputed revolver incident occurred when a committee of union representatives from several out-state cities, after besieging Martin's hotel most of yesterday, sent a group to his suite.

Pointed Gun, Charged

They pounded and kicked on the door. Martin, clad in a bathrobe, opened it, and committee members said, pointed a revolver at one of them, Daniel M. Gallagher, saying: "I mean business; what's all this noise?"

Martin explained afterward he had received threats and he put the gun away when he saw the callers were union members.

Gallagher and his companions asserted Martin had pointed the gun at them, but several hours later when asked about a police report that the firearm was not registered and he had no permit to carry one, Martin said:

"I never owned a gun, I never had one and I didn't point one at anybody."

After twice telling the delegation he was too busy to see it, Martin conferred with the group for three hours last evening. What took place in the noisy conference room was not divulged.

Catlin's Relief Bill Amendment Loses in Madison

Outagamie Assemblyman Calls LaFollette Measure Extravagant

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Administration efforts, successful in preliminary tests, to obtain approval of a $5,000,000 relief appropriation and a boost in the inheritance and gift surtaxes to 50 per cent were denounced here yesterday by Assemblyman Mark Catlin, Jr., Appleton Republican, as unnecessary and extravagant.

While FLPF leaders, sponsors of the $5,000,000 substitute for the administration's earlier bill, claimed that the raise in surtaxes will approximately match their appropriation, Catlin claims that the LaFollette government through a clause in the bill will have at its disposal the entire proceeds of the extra taxes, which he maintains may reach a total of $9,000,000 or more.

Catlin had his own proposal on the relief question, in the form of a substitute amendment to the administration relief bill, but it was quickly killed.

Declaring "every legislature in the last six years has been unable to determine in advance the number of people who will be in need of relief during a whole biennium," Catlin proposed to limit the time period covered by the appropriation from now until January, 1939. The balance of the biennium, he explained, could be cared for by the succeeding legislature which meets at that time.

He would have given the emergency board $1,600,000 as a free fund to use wherever emergency arose during the next 15 months, and would have used $1,400,000 to distribute to all counties on the basis of relief loads.

Catlin also expressed the belief that the heavy increase in inheritance surtax would drive big estates out of Wisconsin. "This is not a dream," he declared. "I have already been notified that one wealthy citizen plans to make his permanent home in California."

The youthful Appleton representative one day this week filibustered for almost two hours in an attempt to postpone action on the larger relief appropriation, but without success. "I am thoroughly dissatisfied with the relief bill as it is now drawn; it has a million defects."

With others of the LaFollette opposition in the house, Catlin fears the consequences of handing over such a large sum of money to a three man Progressive board to spend.

County Health Service Is Outlined at Meeting of Committee at Courthouse

Waupaca—At a recent meeting of the county health committee at the courthouse, a resume was given of the service rendered through the newly organized county health unit. This service functions through a central office in the courthouse, and is carried out according to plans laid each month when the committee of six members meets to discuss its policies and to outline a skeleton for its program.

While a long time plan is tentatively drafted for approximately a one year period, that schedule must be adjusted from time to time in accordance with the needs of the community. This has become the task of County Judge A. M. Schelller. Superintendent of County Schools C. H. Bacher, Mrs. William Schald, the one woman member of the committee; the district health officer, Dr. Allen Fieck; Dr. Marshall Boudry who represents the Medical society of the county, and L. W. Eastling, who as chairman of the county board of supervisors, automatically heads the health committee.

The health department worker spent most of the time during the first months of the service arranging for and assisting at child health centers and in organizing the work for the anti-tuberculosis program which is in full swing at the present time.

Over 400 Examined

More than 400 infants and pre-school children will have been examined by Nov. 1, which will mark the end of the first eight months of the unit. These children will not only have been examined by a physician but where necessary they will have been referred to their family physicians for treatment or correction of defects.

Trained workers instruct the parents in sound child hygiene; in self-help clothing for the toddler and the older pre-school child and washable play things which can be made out of materials in the home.

Of the defects found, according to Miss Estelle Jung, county nurse, tonsillar enlargement is the one most commonly noted. Next are bone weaknesses, most of which, slight, indicate that treatment should be given. In all but a few instances that treatment needs to be purely dietary, and so can be carried on in the home.

A surprisingly low incidence of defective teeth occurs in children of this age group, according to Miss Jung.

Many mothers have returned to report that their children have definitely benefited by attendance at the centers. Importance of protection against communicable disease, particularly diphtheria and small pox is being stressed.

Besides the expectant mothers who were reached through the health centers, 23 have been visited in their homes. Information on this service may be had by telephoning the office of the county nurse, by letter or by personal interview.

Approximately the same number of small babies were visited in their homes within six months of their birth. The majority of the calls were made upon request of the parents themselves; some were referred by physicians and a few by relatives and friends. Other public agencies with which the health service is closely associated have brought several cases to the attention of the committee.

Tuberculosis Test

It was revealed that approximately 110 families have been invited to avail themselves of the tuberculin test for which the county board of supervisors made an appropriation at its summer meeting. The test is a simple one and is at the present time known as the most effective weapon, together with the X-ray against the progress and spread of tuberculosis.

Instances were cited at the meeting of the health committee in which the health department cooperated with other agencies concerning number of families scattered throughout the county. Assistance has been given through the office of Judge A. M. Schelller and through the Lion's club in various cities, in the purchase of 11 pairs of glasses for children whose parents could not purchase them themselves.

The crippled children's field has been entered although much has already been done here by the Crippled Children's Association of the county.

Goiter Prevention

The goiter prevention program which will be carried throughout the public and parochial schools, both grades and high schools is now being launched. While it is urged that all children avail themselves of this preventive measure, the physicians in charge of the program suggest that if any parents are in doubt as to whether or not their child should have the tablets, they consult their family physician before signing the consent slip.

For the future, the health committee in conjunction with the county nurse, expects to continue with all of the work begun, concentrating a little more specifically on the health of the child who has been given a little rest during the summer vacation. In fighting communicable disease, the committee seeks the cooperation of parents where inspections reveal defects of eyes, nose, throat, skin and scalp.

Slips will be sent home with children to their parents. They will list and check any conditions which are apparently deviations from the normal and which seem to necessitate attention. These slips will be presented to the physician or the dentist and will be returned to the teacher after treatment has been given or the correction made. This will be recorded on the reverse side of the slip which is sent home with the child.

Bull Market Not Yet Culminated, Babson Believes

Says Stock Market Shake-Out Is Only Breathing Spell in Upward Trend

BY ROGER BABSON
New York City—September business has been slipping below the August level. The stock market has had a drastic shake-out. Bonds are dropping. Business men and investors are bewildered. They are asking: Are we entering a new depression, or is this simply a breathing spell in the basic upward trend? My answer is that we are experiencing only a breathing spell. I believe that neither the period of prosperity nor the bull market has culminated.

Naturally those who are upset and gloomy can trot out an imposing array of reasons for their pessimism such as the following:

1. Textile, building, and steel industries are all slowing down. Home building has even fallen below a year ago for the first time during the recovery. Steel orders are being accepted today for only six weeks delivery against twenty-two weeks delivery last March.

2. Commodity prices have dipped 5 per cent since last March. Copper is down from 18 to 14 cents per pound; cotton from 13 to 9 cents; and rubber from 27 to 18 cents. Forward-buying last spring has cut into current demand and injured prices.

3. The railroads are buying little equipment. These big customers of steel, lumber, and other heavy materials are "out of the market." Not a single new locomotive has been ordered since July 1. Carloadings and net income are both lower than expected.

4. Retail sales are slowing up. While dollar sales are above the 1936 level, unit sales have dropped below. Consumers so heavily stocked up last spring that they are now resisting the 10 per cent jump in retail prices.

5. New corn is selling at only 55 cents a bushel on the farm and oats for only 26 cents. Millions of bushels of Argentine wheat are ready for export at 25 cents per bushel less than our domestic price. Last year farmers bought heavily of goods and equipment on time for which they must now pay.

6. During the last two years the number of concerns going into bankruptcy has been at the lowest level in history; but commercial failures are now increasing.

7. Profit margins are steadily narrowing. Higher labor costs and heavier taxes have pushed up operating expenses. Selling prices are being held down by consumer resistance. Earnings for the third quarter will reflect this squeeze.

8. From March, 1933 to March, 1936, bank deposits increased $16,000,000,000. The tide has now turned. There has been a $2,000,000,000 drop in deposits since the beginning of the year.

9. Federal Budget problems seem to defy solution. Despite terrific taxes, federal receipts will fall far short of expenses; while politicians continue to block economies.

10. Confidence is at the lowest ebb in three years. Threats of further labor troubles, martial music in Europe and Asia, and fear of a new depression are making business men pull in their necks like turtles.

Now turn these bearish trends around and look at their optimistic side.

1. The current slowing down of the textile and steel industries is healthy. It will keep inventories in line with demand. Lower volumes should make labor and materials concerns realize that unreasonable wages and prices defeat their own purpose.

2. The commodity price drop is also basically sound. Prices last spring were out of line with demand. Fear of a general labor strike caused too much forward buying and too sharp a rise in prices. The present shake-out is good for business.

3. Railroad economists are cheerful. They expect higher costs to be offset by increased freight rates. As evidence of this, one big road placed an order for 1,000 freight cars only ten days ago. Further orders will be released if the rate and labor situations are ironed out satisfactorily.

4. Volume of retail sales is below a year ago, but it is 20 per cent ahead of September, 1935. Last fall there was an abnormal increase in retail trade due to bonus spending. Now we are witnessing healthy buying.

5. Grain prices have tumbled, but the government estimates farm income this year at $9,000,000,000—the highest since 1929. Gains in dairy livestock, and many small fruit prices, plus good crops, should boost farmers' income 14 per cent over last year.

6. Commercial failures may be on the upgrade; but the number of new concerns being incorporated has not increased since 1932. Marginal concerns are still going into bankruptcy; but this means more business for the survivors.

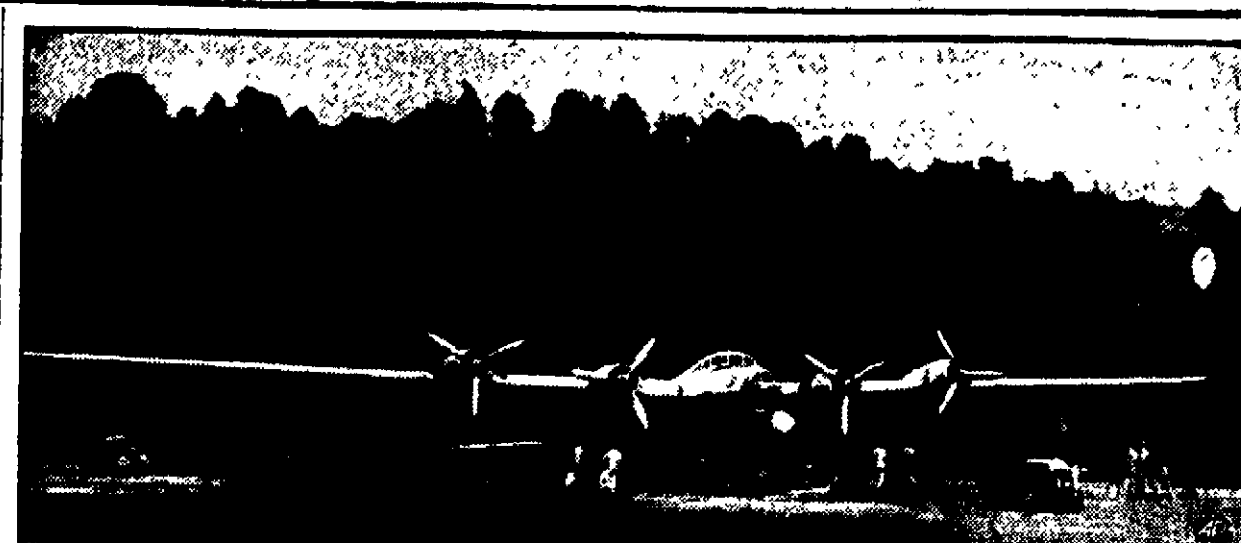

7. Profit margins are lower; but the sharp drop in commodity prices should restore some of the spread between producing costs and selling prices. Increased volume during 1938 should also take up some slack. Moreover, lower profit margins go hand-in-hand with sound prosperity.

8. Even though deposits are dropping, our huge gold supply can be expanded into a total available credit of $125,000,000,000—twice the 1929 peak. Moreover, the $2,000,000,000 gain in some mercantile loans this year means that business men are starting to use this credit.

9. The budget will not be balanced this year nor next. From our children's viewpoint, our federal financing policy is wicked. However, huge federal outlays are inflationary. They are bullish from the short-term angle.

10. The labor market is strong today; but it will turn downward some time just as the stock market turned in 1929. Business men are currently gloomy; but they were far gloomier in 1934. Since then business has advanced 40 per cent and stock prices have increased 50 per cent.

These bullish and bearish factors just about offset each other. The balance, however, falls strongly on the side of optimism when the basic trend is thrown on the scales. Business is on the rebound and it has not yet reached its peak. From 1930 to 1934 the country raised less food and made less goods than it ate or consumed. 1937 is the first time in seven years that there has been a normal balance between production and consumption. The pent-up demand for those five lean years has yet to be fulfilled.

Business cycles are like the ocean tides. When they are running in nothing can stop them. This recession is simply an eddy in the basic upward trend. Despite the possibility of several months of business untimeliness, the tides are strong enough to wash business farther up on the shores of prosperity. Although another depression is certain some day, I am still an optimist and believe that the bull market has not yet culminated.

Americans Under Navy Protection In East War Zone

Country's Asiatic Fleet Ready to Give Assistance, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—American diplomacy is getting itself a little better adjusted to the growing necessity of a more insistent tone to the Japanese and Chinese governments on their disregard of the rights of nationals of other countries caught in the war zones.

When President Roosevelt, on the Labor day week-end, announced in a press interview that Americans who stayed in the Far East war zone would do so at their own risk, the criticism of his course was that it was not accompanied by a warning at the same time the Japanese and Chinese governments would be held responsible for losses of American lives and property. It turns out now that the department of state had made protests before Mr. Roosevelt's press interview occurred and that the Japanese government had flatly rejected the viewpoint expressed by our department of state.

Perhaps the American attitude would have been better understood if the terms of the Japanese reply, which it now develops came on Aug. 31, had been made public. But what is most important is that the position of the United States government now has been made public and along with it a splendidly phrased statement by Admiral Yarnell, commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet of the United States navy, which, of course, has the full approval of the department of state and the president. The statement by Admiral Yarnell is well worth quoting.

"The policy of the commander in chief during the present emergency is to employ United States naval forces under his command so as to offer all possible protection and assistance to our nationals where needed. Naval vessels will be stationed in ports where American citizens are concentrated and will remain there until it is no longer possible or necessary to protect them or until they have been evacuated.

"This policy based on our duties and obligations will be continued as long as the present controversy between China and Japan exists and will continue in full force even after our nationals have been warned to leave China and after an opportunity to leave has been given. Most American citizens now in China are engaged in business or professions which are their only means of livelihood. These persons are unwilling to leave until their businesses have been destroyed or they are forced to leave due to actual physical danger. Until such time comes our naval forces cannot be withdrawn without failure in our duty and without bringing great discredit on the United States navy. In giving assistance and protection our naval forces may at times be exposed to dangers which will in most cases be slight but in any case these risks must be accepted."

No better statement could have been issued. It expresses the historic position of the United States in international law and custom and meets fully the criticism of President Roosevelt's impromptu statement to the press which was so widely construed abroad as an abandonment of our nationals. About two weeks before the Yarnell statement came out, this correspondent wrote:

"It is the implication to be drawn from the president's stay-at-your-own-risk remark which will cause uneasiness all over the world wherever American citizens happen to be unless the president's statement is soon supplemented by

By Lichty

"Notify the Government and they'll take care of my bail—I'm on relief."

a strongly worded document promising at least diplomatic protection as well as physical facilities for evacuation for those caught in war areas by circumstances beyond their own control."

When the administration does modify its policy or reveals that it has taken action which meets public criticism, it is only fair that attention be drawn to such change by those who voiced criticism. It is also important to record the fact that Mr. Roosevelt has refrained from discussing the Japanese-Chinese situation in any offhand comments to the press and that all the departments of the government concerned are collaborating in whatever pronouncements are made.

Authorized Statement

There was for a time some doubt as to whether Admiral Yarnell was speaking for the navy alone or whether his remarks had been approved by the secretary of the navy and by the president. It would be incredible if a naval officer made a statement like that quoted above and made public as a news release at the navy department here if the pronouncement were not in accord with the president's own wishes.

To Mr. Roosevelt as much as anybody else must go the credit for authorizing the publication of the statement by Admiral Yarnell, and it is not a difficult inference to draw that the Japanese government has taken due cognizance of the nature of the vital sentences uttered by the commander in chief of our Asiatic fleet.

The assault on innocent men, women and children by the Japanese has shocked the world. It has set the Japanese back 50 years in world esteem. Barbarities and cruelties are part of war, to be sure, but they are usually excesses committed here and there by subordinate officers or by over-zealous commanders. The spectacle of a so-called major power issuing orders to bomb non-combatants is so horrible that how the rest

Registration to Top 1936 Figure At Trades School

Enrolment in Evening Classes Expected to Exceed 1,200

Although a final report is not complete registration for night classes at the Vocational school probably will exceed last year's figure of 1,200, Herb Heilig, director, said yesterday.

Registration for the classes in the trade and industry division of the school, for example, is considerably heavier than it was a year ago. There are still a number of classes, however, with room for more students, according to Carl Bertram, division director.

Last year's welding course drew 35 and 50 have already enrolled; the electrical course that attracted 40 students last year now has 65; and there are 75 persons ready to begin their studies in the machine shop, compared to the 1936 registration of 45.

Classes in study of the steel square, theory of mechanics, slide rule, refrigeration, and air conditioning are still open. As many courses in mathematics and drawing as are needed will be organized.

Miss Mabel Burke, director of the homemaking division of the school, said yesterday that registration in that division "looks to be greater than last year". Several classes are already filled to overflowing.

Of the world can ever think in terms of respect again for the Japanese government is difficult to imagine. The Japanese may not care today for the respect of mankind, but the time will come when the Tokyo authorities will wish they had followed a better policy of public relations. They will become aroused to world protest when it is too late to make amends. World opinion against the Japanese may some day take the form of a general boycott by the British, French and Americans against Japanese goods and against the extension of credits. The demand of public opinion for a strict enforcement of our own neutrality laws against the shipment of munitions to the Japanese or the extension of credits is growing and it may be applied at a time when the European governments decide to take concerted action.

Washington—(AP)—The senate civil liberties committee may delve into operations of vigilante organizations in hearings late this fall.

Persons associated with the committee said today its investigators already have amassed considerable information on vigilantes and citizens' organizations that have been active in centers of labor trouble.

One of these was described as a citizens' alliance, composed of employers, in Minneapolis. A similar group still is being investigated in Johnstown, Pa., scene of disturbances in the huge Bethlehem steel plant.

A definite course of action for the committee will not be worked out until Chairman LaFollette (P-Vt.) returns from a trip to Europe in about ten days.

Committee to Discuss Safety Program Plans

Plans to raise funds for a safety program in schools in the county will be discussed by executive committee members of the Outagamie County Street and Highway Safety council at 7:30 next Tuesday evening at the courthouse. It has been proposed to secure talking motion pictures on safety. These pictures could be shown in the various schools during the year to make students safety conscious. One of the plans suggested to raise funds to secure such pictures is a safety dance or a series of them in the county.

G-Men Term Brady Gang Most Vicious Outfit Operating

Federal Authorities on Trail of Three 'Half-Pint Killers'

Indianapolis—(AP)—From Indiana, home of John Dillinger, has sprung a gang that G-men label the most vicious now operating.

It is that of Al Brady and his two underlings, who have boasted frequently, according to underworld gossip, that they would "out-Dillinger" Dillinger. They've gone a long way towards making good.

Police charge them specifically with three killings, several bank robberies and holdups. There is a federal reward of $500 out for each.

Like Dillinger, they broke jail after one whirl at outlaws.

Like Dillinger and his henchmen, they started then on a series of bank robberies.

Youngest Is A Braggart

Like the Dillinger gang, they have the G-men on their trail. Director J. Edgar Hoover has set after them a picked squad of federal agents, as usual in such cases. His men have a code word for the gang—"the braga squad."

Most important of all, possibly, the gang has its known weakness. Like Dillinger, its members are overly fond of women.

The "braga squad" are just two former farm boys and a big city youth who went wrong.

All three—Alfred Brady, James Dalhove and Clarence Lee Shaffer, Jr., are small. Police call them "half pint killers." All are the products of broken homes, and are 21 to 31 years old. Both Brady and Dalhove are morose, while Shaffer is boastful and talkative, like Dillinger. To him is credited a crack about "making Dillinger a piker."

What They're Like

Here are details from the Federal Bureau of Identification and the police:

Alfred Brady, credited with being the gang organizer, is an Indiana farm boy, described by one of his first sweethearts as "too sweet to hurt anyone." Pinched-faced and hard-muscled from his years on the farm and at a mechanic's bench, he was born near Kentland, Ind., in 1910 and attended elementary school at North Salem. When he was a child, his father died and Brady moved with his mother to Indianapolis. She remarried, but died in 1926. An errand boy, then a clothing store worker, he was first arrested on a vagrancy charge, in 1934. Later, for possession of stolen property, he did a stretch in an Indiana prison farm, then worked as a farm hand near Hanover, Ind. There he probably met Dalhove, who farmed nearby. By 1935, Brady was in Indianapolis once more, working in factories. The next year the Brady gang raids began.

LETTER, PICTURE WINS MATE'S FREEDOM

She touched a general's heart with her photograph and a letter pleading for her husband's freedom. Mrs. Harold Dahl is shown on the beach near Cannes, France, reassured by Francisco Franco that her aviator-mate might leave Spain.

James Dalhove, crack rifle shot, also is a farm boy—rawboned and scrawny. Four years older than Brady, he was the son of parents later divorced. He attended school at Madison, Ind., married a Cincinnati girl, and has two boys, 9 and 7 years old. A roving laborer as a youth, he returned to Indiana and bought a farm near Hanover, mix-

Robinson, Ill., in January, 1936. Brady was identified as one of the two holdup men. Other holdups followed.

And then in April, 1936, the gang grabbed a haul of jewelry at Lima, O., and escaped after a running fight. Gelseking was wounded and his pals brought him here for medical aid. A police patrol cornered them at a surgeon's office and the gang again shot their way out, killing Police Sergeant Richard Rivers. The transport of $12,000 in jewels across a state line is the basis for the federal charges against the gang.

A few days later, Brady and Dalhove were captured at Chicago, and Shaffer here. Transferred to jail in Greenfield, Ind., they slugged the sheriff with an iron bar, fled to Baltimore and established a base, police believe, for forays back into Ohio and Indiana.

This was a turning point in the career of the gang. No longer did they bother with stores—only banks.

They Kill An Officer

Holdups laid at their door, definitely and tentatively, include bank robberies at Carthage, Farmland, Madison, Anderson and Goodland in Indiana, and at Lancaster, Weston and Greenville in Ohio.

Besides these crimes, there were the killings of Rivers, of Grocery Clerk Edward Linsey in a $150 robbery at Piqua, O., and of State Policeman Minneman in a gun battle near Logansport, Ind.

That battle was a high spot. The Bradys fleeing from the $2,600 bank robbery at Goodland, roared down a country road, raising dust so thick that the officers in the car behind could see only a few feet.

At a crossroads the Bradys laid an ambush as deadly as ever an Indian contrived. They pulled off the road and behind a little white church. As the officers paused at the crossroad to sight their quarry, one of the gang cut loose from one corner of the church, another from a second corner and a third from the gang car. One officer was badly wounded. As the other, Minneman, lay dying in the dust, a gangster is said to have snarled: "I ought to finish you right now."

Woman May Doom Them

After the bank robberies, the gang lay low awhile, but were flushed by police last August in Baltimore.

Brady and Dalhove had married meantime and Brady had set up a tavern there. As "Eddie Maxwell," he contributed to the community's social life by appearing boldly in advertised exhibitions of fancy roller skating at a large Baltimore rink. In the gang hideout, police

Workers' School To Have Classes In Valley Cities

Organization Under Way In Newest Division of State University

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—The newest division of the University of Wisconsin, the school for workers in industry, will begin to function with the organization of classes in the Fox river valley and other industrial centers of the state during the first week of October. Director E. E. Schwartztrauber announced here Wednesday.

Walter Uphoff, representing the new school, is at work in the Valley cities now organizing classes from union memberships and members found an extensive arsenal and gun-making tools.

But the gunmen escaped, as usual, under fire.

What chance is there of catching them?

Officers predict the capture eventually will be made through a tip from some castoff sweetheart.

Shaffer Expects the Chair

For the Chicago capture, Shaffer blames a pretty young New Orleans woman who had admitted leaving her husband and child for gangland thrills.

"If Brady had left women alone," Shaffer told reporters at that time, "we wouldn't be here now. She told us to park the car and leave the junk in it, wanting us to stay in a hotel all night instead of leaving town."

Shaffer summed up the mob's philosophy in these words: "Do I know what's coming to me? Sure, the electric chair with bells. What's the difference? I had a good time while it lasted."

of other workmen's groups, the director said.

Classes will begin the week of Oct. 11, and it is reasonably certain that they will be held in half a dozen centers in the Fox Valley, including Oshkosh, Neenah, Menasha, Appleton, Kaukauna, Green Bay, and possibly others, Schwartztrauber explained.

The school will recruit its students from paper mills, foundries, factories and other industrial establishments, and educate them in the rudiments of labor problems, economics, history, social psychology, and specialized training in the economics of particular sectional industries.

The school's traveling teachers each will have a circuit, the first such system of industrial education in the United States, and an outgrowth of the annual summer school for workers in industry on the University of Wisconsin campus.

The new school will take its place beside the university college of agriculture and the extension division in making state education available to everyone.

THE PRESIDENT AT THE DAMSIDE

At Bonneville the President presented a marshalling of reasons in support of his public power projects.

He brought forth a heretofore undeveloped reason in the assertion that such projects will inure to the benefit of the smaller communities. He discussed facts that reflect upon the large metropolises, the extortionate heights to which land values go, the high rents, the high taxes, and the unfailing high prices for products. He could have added more. Great cities have had a difficult time in controlling vice, crime and corrupt politics; and these three are constant menaces to our form of government.

But it is evident the President does not always permit his right hand to know what his left hand is working at. The Wages and Hours Bill that was supported by the Administration, with its differentials in favor of great cities, would be bound to offset any supposed advantage to accrue from the development of power projects.

At the present time the smaller communities are doing very well. In fact, they are developing rather famously at the cost of the greater ones, which have driven out hundreds of industries because of prohibitive exactions that make their future doubtful and are always bound to be a drag upon their welfare.

Certainly the President put the case as strongly as it could be put for those who support this Government venture into business. But the justification for this radical and unusual policy will be seen to be largely but a promise and one that may turn out anything but according to the terms of the prophecy.

Promises are by their nature easy to make. Pictures are drawn with great facility. But their worth may be estimated by the fact that in the same address the President, who now commits himself to build "from the bottom up," conveyed the assurance that the budget would be balanced with the year that begins July 1st next.

ON THE DEFENSIVE

The Foreign Policy Association, commenting on the fact that only three major democracies remain—the United States, France and Great Britain—cites the stimulating of discussion of foreign affairs, the promoting of understanding of world events, as principal bulwarks of American democracy.

"Unless democracy can apply learning and intelligence to the solution of its problems it seems doomed," says a report of the Association. "For those who believe in democracy, therefore, there is no greater task than that of public education."

The truth of the statement is obvious. Democracy is on the defensive. The understanding of democracy will be best stimulated by the study of other systems. A probing under the surface of the terms "fascism" and "communism" and an understanding of their real meaning for persons whose lives are directed by such systems are necessary if one is to appreciate fully the beneficencies of democratic systems.

"He knows not England," said the sage, "who only England knows." The statement applies as well to other systems of government under which men and women live. In the dictatorial countries the people know only their own governments. That is all they are allowed to know. The press is controlled or dictated by governments and it is only the information that is favorable to the fascist or communist systems, as the case may be, that is allowed to appear.

Democracy is self-government. To govern themselves intelligently, peoples must know the pitfalls to avoid and the major ends to seek.

RED LIGHTS

In looking through newspapers from all sections of the country, one is impressed with the widespread and growing agitation for some more rigid control of the use of red bulbs and red neon tubing in display signs along traffic lanes.

In the automobile sections of the newspapers and in the "letters to the editor" columns, one finds the protests. And, increasingly, they are taking an uglier tone. Where, a year or so ago, the protests principally were suggestions that something should be done, more and more of them, nowadays, are "demands" that something shall be done and at once.

When traffic deaths in one year are counted in the scores of thousands, motorists feel that some action, any action, is demanded that may serve to make streets and highways more safe. They may not be agreed, always, about the nature of that action though there does appear to be pretty general agreement about the dangers of wholesale use of red lights.

Some city streets are a glare of red. The stranger, particularly, must peer desperately about to locate traffic and danger signals. Accidents occur.

Some day, perhaps, when enough persons become insistent something will be done to limit the use of the red light for signal purposes.

BLOODY PERIOD

Interesting, if somewhat discouraging, is the report from Harvard University where a professor, aided by research students, has made a study of the Twentieth Century's "war index." The group has discovered that the first quarter of this century was "the bloodiest period of all history."

The figures show the extent of the research. The group studied 902 wars and 1,615 civil disturbances, occurring over a period of some 2,500 years. In the Twentieth Century the "war index" is eight times greater than in all the preceding centuries.

This means, the professor explains, that the average man of the Thirteenth Century had 6,500 more chances to die peacefully in bed than his descendant in the Twentieth Century.

So, with the advance of civilization, the bloodiness of wars has also advanced. There is considerable excuse for pessimism in examining this fact. If civilization cannot bring peace—even in the comparatively advanced stage civilization has now reached—what chance is there ever to eliminate war? And, consequently, why try to eliminate it? Why not, rather than talking and hoping for peace, build vast armies and navies in an effort to maintain national integrity?

It is often pointed out that each problem solved brings two in its wake. As civilization has moved forward it has solved many problems—problems relating to personal comfort and leisure. But it has brought increasingly difficult social problems, even if the physical process of living has been made easier. But none of these social problems gives rise to pessimism or fatalism. No one seriously believes the problems are beyond solution merely because they have increased in number and magnitude with the advance of learning and culture.

War is another social problem. Admittedly, it has become more of a problem than ever, as all social problems have in a developing civilization. But there is nothing more now than there was 2,500 years ago to suggest that war can never be ended. The need and the challenge are for increased effort to end war—just as for increased effort to meet and solve all of the other problems of civilization's maturity—rather than for the how-can-it-ever-be-done attitude.

What is best for America to do? The answer is plain. It may stay out of war and help to make half the world, the Western Hemisphere, a beacon of light to downtrodden people everywhere.

Admittedly the rest of the world including brutal Russia, sets its ambitions by the store of America's accomplishments. The process of accomplishing peace throughout the world is bound to be slow but it is bound to be never if we follow our plan of 20 years ago.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Next week has been designated as National Fire Prevention Week.

These weeks throughout the year given labels and dedicated to specific purposes are apt to receive a lackadaisical response from the general public, but Fire Prevention week is one which should be answered by action on the part of all who own homes or business offices.

For ever since man first tamed the fire of the lightning and put it to his own use he has lived a constant danger for the human race. Every so often fire breaks its bonds of captivity and roars uncontrolled to the destruction of property and even human life.

We have today efficient fire fighting departments in all cities, big and small. But firemen can only close the gates after the horse has fled. Real honest to goodness fire prevention must come from the public itself.

There are a great number of things that can be done during Fire Prevention week to cut the risk of fire. Everyone knows what they are. The problem is to get people to do them.

And once they have cleaned out basements and attics, had their furnaces and electric wiring checked, and generally removed fire hazards from their premises, the next thing is for people to celebrate Fire Prevention week 52 weeks out of the year.

As a matter of fact, the last state to enter the union. There are 19 states to a pound.

Michigan is the "Wolverine" state.

The great city of the ocean below sea level.

The Valley. There is the largest residence in the world.

The city of 17,000,000 people in the world's Sunday schools.

ALMOST overlooked it, and it would have been inconsistent of me not to have mentioned it, but Franklin D. R. again prophesied a balanced budget the other day. As nearly as I can remember, he has been doing precisely that for some years and each time somebody has had to explain why the country continues to run in the red. . . . someone else usually does the explaining. . . . being who he is, FDR only makes the promises and lets the yes-men explain the failures. . . .

Note that Hugo Black's troubles have been used as the basis of at least one radio comedian's gag. Walter O'Keefe, to be exact. This, also, is bad news for the people concerned, because to have people laughing at Hugo would be far more fatal than all the denunciation he has received to date.

He also indicated his belief in the type of football he teaches—the climax run variety, where every man does his job at once and the result is a touchdown from wherever the play happened to start. Said Harry: "The candidates with whom we were dealing last year were accustomed to a system that was of the three or four yard gain variety."

Considering the record, he undoubtedly has something there, although it must be a little tough for Dr. Spears to hear about it.

THESE TWO

Back of each man's endeavor is the dream Of one who loves him dearly. . . . It is she Who lights his way, are beacon lights that gleam Upon the outposts of success. . . . He strives Always with thoughts of her, his eager pace Quickened by the bright courage in her face! The goal is hers as well, when he arrives.

For fifty years, her steps have matched his own. She has inspired him to his noblest deeds. And ministered with gladness to his needs. . . . Would he have been so great a man alone? With her beside him, as his footsteps press Upon the narrow way, the warming glow Of sunset lingers, and the sweet winds blow Upon these two, the breath of happiness! (Copyright, 1937)

ENDOCRINE TREATMENT OF OLD GENTLEMAN'S CURSE

I say old gentleman. It depends, of course, on how far he allows the affliction to progress before he places himself in medical hands. Prostatic hypertrophy, which produces gradually increasing obstruction, usually begins between the ages of fifty and sixty years. Too many old gentlemen who are so afflicted at fifty-seven, say, lack what it takes—they try to evade an honest consideration of their condition and the proper management of it, and presently they become just old men and, if they persist in their willful evasion of treatment, repugnant old men. Notwithstanding the cultural or other pretensions of these repugnant old men, they rate the same standing one would give the professional beggar who exhibits some remedial bodily affliction for the purpose of getting easy money from gullible people.

A man past fifty may, from bad habit, merely get up from bed once every night. When he finds it necessary for comfort to get up twice every night, he needs careful investigation to determine the state of his prostate gland. At fifty a normal man should have seven hours of undisturbed sleep every night. At sixty he may require only six hours. The man who does honest work or gets considerable exercise naturally needs more sleep than the man who lives by his wits or merely carries on a business or a sedentary existence. At this age a man should put aside childish notions of "brain work" and "high tension" and "nervous strain" and "nervous exhaustion." These conceits do not become the age of wisdom.

To the best of our present knowledge prostatic hypertrophy and obstruction resulting therefrom has no more significance, as to the patient's medical history, mode of life, habits or moral character than has hardening of the arteries or presbyopia (old sight).

Dr. B. Cuneo, French physician, has found that treatment with estrogen (anterior pituitary-like hormone) gives good functional results in the early stage of prostatic adenoma or hypertrophy. In a series of cases observed for three years by him, under such treatment, with period of rest between series of injections (hypodermic or intramuscular injections) the disorder remained stationary if it did not regress. Cuneo reported his experience in 1936 (Bulletin de l'Académie de Médecine, Paris, Dec. 1, 1936).

The June 12 issue of Paris Medical presented a report by Dr. I. Wuzmeister on the same method of treatment. He advocates larger doses of estrogen. In 23 cases so treated the improvement in 16 was marked, especially diminution of the nocturnal frequency—patients who had been compelled to rise five or six times every night, after a few weeks of treatment found themselves able to sleep comfortably with only one or two interruptions. There was usually a diminution of residual urine too—the quantity retained after micturition, due to the obstruction. This residual urine, by the way, is the direct cause of the inflammation and infection that supervenes if the condition is permitted to progress untreated. Wuzmeister says that at least 100,000 international units of estrogen must be injected per week, but as improvement becomes noticeable, the weekly dose may be reduced to 10,000 units—in any case at least twelve weeks treatment must be given, if any benefit is to be expected.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Allergy
 Contemplate going into poultry business. My father was asthmatic, and I seem to sneeze excessively from presence of any dust. Wondered if I might be sensitive to chicken feather dust. (E. M. C.)
 Answer—Only way to learn is by working about a poultry place or visiting such a place. If you experience no unpleasant reaction, you are probably not sensitive.
 I do the family washing (husband, son, daughter), ironing, cooking, baking, sewing and try to keep up my piano practice two hours a day. In order to do that I have to let the dust remain on the piano. Much singing in our home, too, and all singers should learn your belly breathing. My husband is a whole-sale druggist. We are all faithful disciples of your health teachings. (Mrs. C. H.)

Answer—Thank you. It would be a good thing for the health and happiness of many women if they would do their own housework instead of playing so hard at bridge and cocktails before dinner. Singing, students or teachers may have instructions for breathing if they will send ten cents coin and stamped addressed envelope for booklet "How to Breathe." It includes instructions for Resuscitation.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, 265 El Camino, South, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Your Birthday

"LIBRA"

If October 2 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 12 noon until 2 p. m. from 3 to 5 p. m. and from 9 to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 10 a. m. until noon; from 5 to 7 p. m. and from 11 p. m. until midnight.

It might be good judgment to consult who ever you expect to share your pleasures this day as to their wishes before formulating any definite plans. Ideas of individuals will perhaps vary greatly regarding the subject of entertainment. Many surprising circumstances may place a restriction on activities this day, so be prepared to make allowances for any excuses that might be offered in breaking engagements. This is a poor day to trust to luck that valuable will not be disturbed or taken if left carelessly exposed where they might be a temptation. Locks and keys have a well defined use, and their usefulness must not be ignored. If the possibility of loss is to be eliminated, you might have to adjust yourself to some social condition that may not meet with your approval, but will afford much pleasure to someone else. Any personal sacrifice you make is apt to be well rewarded. Married and engaged couples, as well as sweethearts, will have to work hand-in-hand this day to get through it peacefully.

If a woman and October 2 is your birthday, your sympathies may frequently cause you to use poor judgment. View things dispassionately analyzing how they will affect your personal interests before you act on anything, if you would avoid making some serious mistakes. You possibly do much better work with a partner, or with someone co-operating with you than yourself. Educational, social welfare, journalism or work of a missionary nature may prove both congenial and profitable for you. Homelife, however, with a husband and children, is likely to make you much happier than a commercial or professional career.

The child born on October 2, will develop into a light-hearted youngster when leading strings are things of the past, but with a comprehensive regard for the responsibilities of life. Children born on this date, frequently are very successful in either commercial or artistic careers.

If a man and October 2 is your natal day, you have a tremendous amount of determination, and may be rather headstrong. You may have many friends, whose loyalty will serve you well. As a contractor, promoter, broker, author, jurist, dentist, surgeon, actor or artist your earning capacity ought to be very gratifying.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER
 New York—This is a portrait of a theatrical "car" on Broadway. He is a producer, but as there are at least five others just like him, this becomes a composite portrait. They are, on the surface, all good friends. Fighting among themselves as a faction, went out when Ziegfeld died. They have their offices above theaters in the West Forties, all within a horseshoe pitch of Times Square.

Two of them have the manners of Oxford graduates. One is a gruff but kindly man who seems ashamed to let others see the compassion he feels for the less fortunate—hence his gruff manner, followed by a $5 note surreptitiously stuffed into a panhandler's pocket. They all speak graciously of one another—when speaking for the press. . . . What they tell each other privately is their own affair. One of them has the unvarying habit of sailing for Europe two hours after his plays open. . . . He never knows whether they are to be hits or flops until next afternoon, when he receives cables from his press-agent, telling him the verdict of the press.

His cable bill totals thousands of dollars, for on good reviews the press-agent cables them verbatim. . . . Two of his colleagues, like himself, own theaters named after themselves. . . . They speak of the vanity of actors on Broadway, but you seldom hear of a theater being named for an actor. . . . They are named for the owner, who produces the shows.

Three of these men are handsome. . . . All six are shrewdly analytical, using their heaven-given talent to make dollars as well as toil for art's sake. . . . With two exceptions, they have families, own vast estates. . . . One of them is sea-crazy and devotes all his spare time to yachts and boats. . . . All of them are natural born gamblers. . . . They gamble fortunes on the fancy of a player-coer's mind. . . . Few plays may be brought to first night without costing a minimum of $25,000. . . . Often a play may close after

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—With its tongue in its cheek this government has joined in a protest against a breach of the peace maintained for two years in the Amazonian jungle between Bolivia and Paraguay.

The United States was one of the American republics which persuaded Paraguay and Bolivia to stop fighting in the Gran Chaco while a neutral commission investigated what they were fighting about and what could be done to stop it.

Under heavy pressure from neighboring nations and the United States, the two countries folded up their war in 1935 by withdrawing their armies from a neutral ground between. Since then, neutral observers have patrolled the "no-man's land" between the two armies.

MISTAKE

Imagine the indignation of two Uruguayans acting as neutral observers when they were pounced upon by Paraguayan soldiers who took them back to camp and held them several hours as prisoners. The Paraguayans were not supposed to be in the neutral zone, first of all, and second, they were expected to keep their hands off the neutral observers, whose job was patrolling the bug-ridden spot was bad enough in any event.

Officials here could only smile. Department underlings suspected that a wandering patrol of Paraguayan Indians had piled upon the Uruguayan neutrals in full belief they had captured a pair of Bolivian spies. The Indians were not well posted in international law, and cared less about such minor matters as neutral zones.

However, when the news got out of the frightful indignity, Yankee members of the neutral commission joined with the others in a sizzling protest to Paraguay. It was just one of those little by-plays in the foreign service that help to break into the monotony of fly-swatting.

YANGTZE YANKED

The Japanese bombing of Nanking probably will suspend for a time the soothing little messages that Admiral Yarnell has been sending to headquarters from Shanghai. Day after day while Japanese naval guns and Chinese artillery were thundering around Shanghai, Admiral Yarnell, in charge of the U. S. fleet in the Orient, would report:

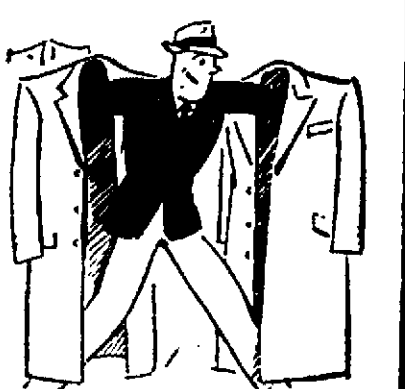

"All quiet on the Yangtze." For the first few days, state department employees thought the report was carrying this "strictly neutral" business a bit far. Ultimately a solution appeared. The admiral was not spoofing. He was being seamanly exact. Shanghai, where the fighting was, is not on the Yangtze. It is on the Whangpoo, a dozen or more miles south of where the Yangtze empties into the ocean.

The first performance, in which case the $25,000 goes quietly down the drain pipe.

Only one, to my knowledge, has ever been in jail. . . . All spend their days on a never-ending search for just their "right" play. . . . They are widely traveled, and they communicate daily with the world's most noted playwrights. . . . One of them recently crossed the Atlantic for a five-minute conference with an author concerning an unimportant sequence in a drama.

All of them adhere to the "small stage-few people" form of entertainment. . . . That is, they rarely go in for musical revues or operettas. . . . They prefer the Noel Coward type of sophisticated comedy or the Frederick Lonsdale form of polite melodrama.

One of them is married to a world famous actress. . . . Three of them are known as top-flight directors. One of them has never—single handedly—directed a play of his own, but he frequently directs plays for other producers.

It's nice to stand and try on one topcoat after another.

And if you'll take your place before our mirrors tomorrow, by the time you have finished, you'll know as much about topcoats as most clothing men, for you'll see more topcoats than the average clothing man sees.

This isn't just one line of topcoats. It's a review of the nation's best . . . a composite picture of what's going on in styling and fabric from one end of this alert country to the other.

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood—In this day of million-dollar pictures, even the biggest studios are taking out "insurance" on their annual celluloid crop in the form of westerns.
The ride-em-cowboy school of drama is insurance in a very real sense. A million-dollar special may have all the class money can buy but it has to gross considerably more than a million to keep its producer's job long. When they make a "western," they know they'll get back whatever it cost—and a good deal more to apply on possible losses from more pretentious films.
Darryl Zanuck's search for an unknown to boost into western stardom is indicative of the major studio trend. Zanuck wanted Gene Autrey, tied up at Little Republic, but couldn't get him. Autrey is no star in Hollywood, but he is a pet of the exhibitors, especially in small towns. Those victims of Hollywood grandeur know that the only way to make money on some of Hollywood's "colossal" is to play them with an Autrey—or a Buck Jones, a Bill Boyd, a Tim McCoy, a Tex Ritter, a John Wayne, a Dick Foran.

Payroll Runs High
Even Metro, too snug to admit it is going in for "westerns," is reaching into the open spaces. "Big outdoor romances," they call it. "Big with lots of money in 'em." A newcomer named Denis O'Keefe is their answer. He'll play in a special called "Bad Men of Brimstone" with Wallace Beery, then Peter B. Kyne's "Jim the Conqueror," and he may get Conrad Richter's "Sea of Grass."
Studios spend about $30,000,000 on hell-for-leather cowboy pictures, exclusive of the so-called "super-westerns," and several thousand persons make their living almost exclusively by working in and on these thrillers. The annual payroll for riders and stunt men alone runs above a million, while horses earn a quarter of that amount.

Why They're Popular
Ex-cowboys and rodeo performers and old-time movie westerners receive $11.25 a day while working and many average around $1,500 a year. There are 800 ordinary riding horses, earning their owners about $250 a year each, while trained horses bring more.

The people who make money from "western" production are not confined to Hollywood. At Kernville, location where about a third of the westerns are made, the town has built a western-street set, for rent to any troupe. And many of the riders live there, or at Big Bear or Lone Pine.
Charles Barton, making a name for his "westerns," sums up their popularity thus:
"Everyone likes a good fight. Most people like to see a good horse run. The romantic ideal of a dashing hero and a damsel in distress is as old as the human race. In 'hoss opera' you have all the elements."

E. Liethen Grain company was given a permit to construct a concrete basement under a platform on its building at 113 N. Badger avenue. The improvement was estimated at $500. A permit for $50 was issued to John Ahrens, 711 E. Fremont street to erect a garage, 12 by 22 feet.

Growers Invited to Session Friday Evening At Dale

A meeting of Outagamie county potato growers scheduled for Friday evening will be held at Moxies hall, Dale, instead of at the courthouse, R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent announced today. Samples of seed potatoes will be shown and prizes quoted.

Due to the severe damage to the potato crop by yellow dwarf disease in the western part of the county, arrangements have been made to ship in one or two cars of certified seed. This is being done largely to help out the commercial growers, but other farmers have been invited to take advantage of the opportunity to get new seed. The price will be reasonable due to the low price of common potatoes this year. Agent Swanson said. The number of bushels shipped in

No Man Wants Wife Who Judges and Criticizes Him

BY DOROTHY DIX

A group of psychologists who have been delving into the why and wherefore of marriage and trying to find out what makes it what it is, declare that it is inequality between husbands and wives that brings about most matrimonial failures.

But, continue these wise men, when one or the other of the high contracting parties in a marriage is superior to the other it should be the man, for a man can go on loving and being happy and satisfied with an inferior wife, but it is the essence of a woman's love that she shall look up to her husband.

Of course, there is nothing new in these findings, but their truth is a matter of common knowledge. All of us can cite a dozen cases in which a clever and intelligent man is united to a Dumb Dora wife to whom he is perfectly devoted. And we can also point out plenty of superior women who have divorced perfectly good husbands for no other reason than that they were dull and stupid, and bored them past endurance.

Very often Nature has given to a woman the brains, the energy, the initiative that it has withheld from wife who is the go-getter in the matrimonial partnership. It is she who literally pushes the husband into success. But the man whose wife makes him never worships his Creator. On the contrary, he resents her being able to do the things he cannot do, and almost invariably he turns from her to some inferior woman who will think him wonderful and great and burn incense at his feet. When the gray mare is the better horse there is likely to be a smash-up.

On the other hand, there is nothing that makes so much for the success of a marriage as for the wife to regard her husband as a little tin god, and to hang upon his every word as if it were the inspired utterance of an oracle. When a wife begins every sentence with "John says," it is a certificate of domestic bliss strong enough to draw money on at the bank.

It is proof that the wife is perfectly satisfied with her matrimonial bargain and is on her tiptoes trying to placate her hero and prove her worthiness of the honor he has bestowed upon her by choosing her as a wife. It is soothing to the man's egotism to find in a world of critics one who appreciates his real worth.

At a matter of fact, home is the only place in which a man's vanity can really assert itself. In his business and professional life he must contend with men who are his equals or his superiors. The blows he gets leave him humiliated, with his self-esteem battered and bruised and bleeding at every pore. The only palliative for his sufferings is the adulation of some woman who believes him to be the wisest and greatest of all God's creations, and who blames all of his failures and mistakes on the jealousy and evil machinations of others.

No man wants a wife who sees through him, or who judges him, or who criticizes him. He only wants one who admires him and who yes-yeses him. That is why so many men marry inferior women and are happy with them as long as the soft soap holds out.

Wives do not feel this way about inferior husbands. Perhaps it is the way they are built, perhaps it is of subservience of wives to their husbands, but every woman would because of the thousands of years a thousand times rather be the wife of a successful man than to be successful herself. It burns her with shame for her husband to be a weakling, not able to hold his own with other men. You never saw a

The Story of Glass

V-MODERN WONDERS

In the old days, it was a common thing for people in automobile accidents to be badly cut by flying glass. Sometimes they "went through the windshield" and either died or were not the same afterward.

Perhaps the greatest modern glass wonder is the 200-inch disk made at Corning, N. Y. Cast for the mirror of a giant telescope, this disk had a weight of 20 tons. It was transported to California to be ground and polished.

Plastic glass has lately come into public notice. It is of about the weight of common glass, but is extremely strong. It can "resist" a pressure of five tons to a square inch, but it can be "sawed, drilled, cut, and molded to any form."

A cheaper form of the so-called polarizing glass has been produced during the past few years. Glass of this kind strains out certain light waves.

The use of polarizing glass can take away the danger of glaring headlights on the highways. Recently I saw a good proof of this in a display at a museum of arts and industry in New York. Perhaps the next few years will see the end of automobile lights.

The claim is made that glass of this kind will make "three-dimension" moving pictures practical. Such pictures would seem more real than those of two dimensions which we are in the custom of seeing.

Offer Child Choice but It Should be Real, Safe

BY ANGELO PATRI

One way of developing a child's good sense is to let him make a choice and abide by the result. But, like all other things in this world, there are several sides of the matter to be considered. One of them the conditions of the choice. It must be real and it must be safe, especially for the little ones.

Should you ask Rudie what he will have for breakfast and should he answer blithely, "Fried chicken and watermelon" you would have to make plain to him that a breakfast menu for a three-year-old did not include those delicacies. And then you would be obliged to serve him the usual orange juice, toast, cereal, eggs and milk. Don't give a child a choice when there is none.

It is a mistake to offer a choice of two evils. He may not choose the lesser one and then, where are you? "Will you go to the dentist or will you go to bed and stay there until you make up your mind to go?" is a very unwise choice indeed. He may choose going to bed, and he may stay there until you are forced to take him out and march him into the dentist's office. That would not be giving him a choice which would lead to his cultivating sound judgment and common sense.

Nor is it wise to offer a choice between things that are not equally right for him to have. "Which sweater will you wear today? You know it is cold. Will you wear the white one or the thick red one?" The thick red one is the one he has to have, but should he choose the white and lighter one you are in a bad place. Better not to have said a word about it and to have laid out the red sweater with the remark, "It's just the thing for today."

When offering a choice don't lose sight of the element of choice and put compulsion in its place. "You can go to the dance, or you can have a new lining for your sports coat. Of course if you go to the dance I can't do anything toward getting you ready. You'll have to wear what you have." That's no choice. It's anything but.

It would have been a fair choice had the girl's mother said, "I would like to give you a new dress for the dance if you really wanted to go, but you need a new lining in your sports coat and I can't give you both. What do you think we'd better do?" If she chooses the evening dress and lets the torn rabbit skin serve, accept the choice. But don't, when she begins to discover the mistake she has made, to give her the new lining at the cost of new sweater and hat you needed for yourself.

The point of the choice is in teaching the child to abide by his decision and take the consequences without complaining. Experience is the best teacher life affords, and this matter of choosing is the way we gather strength from that teacher. To remove the consequences of a free choice is the essence of the matter. To remove the consequences is to make the whole experience of doubtful value.

And it is important, with all children, that the choice offered be real, that it holds no hint of compulsion, that the decision in any case will not lead to lasting hurt. A little inconvenience is useful here, but real injury cannot be per-

Contour of Face Must Be Youthful

BY ELSIE PIERCE

HOLDING that line is as much of a task in the pictorial scheme as it is on the football field. After twenty-five it takes definite effort to do it. Oh, if you're twenty or less and quite complacent about the firm, youthful contour of yours, twenty-five seems far away and the mere possibility of loss of that line seems even more remote. If you're twenty-five or even thirty and in spite of yourself have retained a lovely line don't expect Nature to continue to be kind.

What you need is cream, astringent and some neck exercises. . . . three simple things and a few minutes a day to devote to the routine.

Right at this season all is elegance, opulence and glamour; everything is climbing high—skirts, shoes, hair, hats. Don't you think that a drooping contour would be sadly out of line with such a picture?

Home Treatment

An occasional salon facial is fine, if you can afford it. Any number of the more usual facials include an astringent tie-up. But whether you have the salon facials or not, the supplementary home treatments are of utmost importance.

A few minutes a day will prove more successful and resultful than hours spent now and then; and the tie-up for a few minutes a day is preferable to one worn for hours on end. Certainly it is not necessary or advisable to sleep in a chin strap, because for one thing the muscles become too accustomed to the artificial support and for another we move about so in our sleep that the strap cannot have its full value.

Start your home treatment by cleansing the skin thoroughly. Then sponge with tonic. Now apply a good cream. Start at the base of the neck and work up under the chin line. Pat vigorously under the jawline from ear to ear with the back of the hand. Directly over the cream pat with a pad of cotton saturated with astringent.

That done, open the pad, dip into astringent again, place under the contour and tie firmly with a strip of gauze. Then go out your business, reading, writing, doing whatever you please. After fifteen minutes or a half hour, remove any remaining cream with tissues and pat with astringent once more.

For complete directions and manipulations for the treatment and tie-up please send self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope and ask for my "Facial Routine." You may also have my chin and neck exercises if you wish. (Copyright, 1937)

It is not necessary to wait until spring before pruning apple trees. This work can be done at any time after the leaves fall.

Put a tablespoon of vinegar into water in which glasses are rinsed. It gives them a luster.

Never salt fresh meats when frying. Salt tends to extract the juices and hardens these meats.

When postage stamps stick together, lay a thin paper over them and run a hot iron over the paper. The heat does not remove mutilage.

Defensive Play Must be Broken Into Three Phases

BY ELY CULBERTSON

In the final analysis, defensive play must be broken up into three phases. First, there is the vital question of the opening lead which, of course, forms a department all by itself. The second phase of defensive play is the formation of a general line of defense after the dummy goes down. But even though much light has been brought to bear on the situation by the appearance of dummy's thirteen cards, there may remain several points of doubt which can be cleared up only toward the end of the hand.

Let us put ourselves in the position of the West defender in the following hand:

The bidding:

Double Pass Pass Pass

Perhaps it is superfluous to point out that East's diamond bid was more psychic than honest. But South's overall, vulnerable, had no alibi whatsoever. It was just a poor bid. As to East's leave-in-of the penalty double, either his courage or his optimism suffered from elephantiasis. Of course it must be admitted that he would have had to look hard for a safe take-out.

In this hand the opening lead was not a blind one, because East had bid and West was beautifully equipped with the ace-small of partner's suit. After laying down the ace and viewing dummy, a diamond continuation seemed unattractive, particularly when East played the deuce. West correctly decided to make better use of the few times he could expect to be on lead and shifted to his top heart. Dummy ducked and East, who could locate declarer with

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

WHY MAKE PARTY-GIVING DIFFICULT?

Dear Mrs. Post: Our silver anniversary is just around the corner, as is our daughter's wedding day. Her wedding is to be a very simple one, probably at the clergyman's house. As our own house is small and our income no bigger, we thought of renting a room at the hotel and having a reception to celebrate both occasions. The wedding will take place in the morning with a breakfast for the immediate families following, and this reception would then be either in the afternoon from two to four, or in the evening. Will you tell me how formal the invitations must be and what dresses my daughter and I would wear.

Answer: I think to drag the wedding out over so many hours would be very exhausting to every one concerned. Personally I think it would be much better to have the wedding in the afternoon, followed immediately by a reception at which there could be two cakes, one for the bride and another trimmed with silver for you. Of course if you would like to give two separate entertainments, that is for you to decide, but under the circumstances you describe I shouldn't think of it were I in your place. The object of a late afternoon wedding at four or four-thirty and a reception at five or five-thirty is that people in business will be able to come. If you have it at midday or as early as two o'clock, few if any men can be present. Verbal invitations will do. Your daughter will, I suppose, wear bridal clothes and the obvious dress to suggest for you is one of pale silver grey. Or if you don't like grey, your own favorite color with a little silver trimming—silver flowers if nothing else.

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to give a money shower for a friend, without specifying any amounts, of course. Will you please word the invitations for me.

Answer: I have never heard of a money shower, and I don't think I would like it at all. It would be too much like passing a collection box around for charity. On the other hand, a present sent by a group of friends who have all contributed to it is one of the nicest gifts possible to receive. A silver tray is most typical, with the signature of each giver engraved on it, or a tea-cloth with names embroidered on it, or anything else that can be signed is especially appropriate. Or they could collect a sum for any definite object—but not at a shower.

Communism and Fascism Are Same Breed of Cats

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—There has been no special demand for it, but my advice to the National Association of Manufacturers and all the chambers of commerce and boards of trade around the country which have been viewing communism with such picturesque alarm is to view fascism the same way and make it convincing.

In this manner they could bust up the play around the left wing which holds that all business men, or, anyway, all men in big business, are pining for a dictatorship like Mussolini's or Hitler's in which the working man is forbidden to organize or strike and may even be forbidden to quit his job as an individual.

True enough, the working man has few liberties in Italy and Germany, and there may be some big operators in American industry who would like to adopt that portion of fascism which deals with labor. But that isn't all there is to fascism, and every intelligent business man knows that business also loses its rights under a dictator.

Under fascism the big shot tells the boss how many men he must employ and how much to pay them, regulates the volume of business that he may handle, and regulates his prices and profits. In Germany only a week or so ago Hitler, for the second time in a few months, warned industry that the state would take it over if industry didn't keep up with his schedule of preparation for his war.

Business Is Stuck If Dictator Needs Money

If a dictator needs money—and they are always broke from overspending on arms or public works—he doesn't bother to call together the poor monkeys who compose his parliament and get them to pass a tax law. He just takes it wherever he finds it, and inasmuch as business always keeps some on hand as fuel to keep the chimneys hot, the dictator is always sending some flunkies around with a satchel to put the bite on the business men. Sure, in the early days of fascism and nazism, the business men, and especially the heavy operators, thought these dictatorships were the answer to their prayer.

The communists were raising merry hell, wrecking plants, wasting and destroying material, pushing people around, slugging, shooting and burning. They were as tough and dirty in their ways as the black shirts and brown shirts were to be when they came along, a fact to remember when some communist starts beefing about the brutalities practiced on his comrades in the crazy countries.

But the Italian and German business men didn't forget that once their dictators obtained absolute control, business, like labor, would be ruled by the whim of the head man or some accredited deputy who might be a terrible thief and grafter. Political appointees with absolute authority are pretty much the same breed of cats in all countries, and business men in Italy and Germany could a tale unfold, were they not afraid, of no-good relatives of government agents dropped into nominal jobs at big salaries, of kick-backs and commissions and larceny the like of which not even Chicago has ever imagined.

In the newspaper business in Italy, fascism has compelled the publishers to retain on their staffs some of the smelliest old bums that ever tossed a dram and kept them year after year although they are absolutely worthless, because they are members of the fascist journalists' syndicate or union.

The publishers may have been hot for fascism when it started—but it is no fun now. They can't hire or fire without permission from a deputy who holds the duke's say-so in such matters, they print what they are told to print and where they are told to print it, their white paper is rationed according to the favor of some party member who doesn't have to give any reasons for curtailing the supply, their advertising is controlled, and they don't feel good.

Big business in this country doesn't want fascism, but, like the American Legion a few years ago, it has hated communists so noisily and exclusively that the bolos are able to make a fairly convincing charge of infernal fascism. It takes only a few words to undo this, as the legion did, by adding the words fascism, nazism and dictatorship in every resolution against communism and every speech on the subject.

The plan should be to create one front against all of them, instead of standing in the middle and fighting them on all sides. In practical effect they are all about the same, and it is always a pleasure to remind them of this resemblance, because it drives them nuts.

Air infantry—soldiers descending behind the enemy's lines by means of parachutes—is a development of the Soviet army strategists.

Points to Objections In State Housing Act

Washington—T. H. Foley, Jr., general counsel of the federal housing division, cited "serious legal objection" Thursday to the New Jersey and Wisconsin housing authority laws.

The Wisconsin law, he said, limits construction of projects to those started within two years after the effective date of the act.

"This two-year period has already expired," he said, "so no projects may now be initiated. Moreover, among other objections, the act contains a provision requiring that rentals be sufficient to cover 3 per cent interest on the total original cost, operation maintenance, and depreciation.

"This provision appears to require that rentals be sufficient to include interest on the entire cost of a project as well as to pay charges for operation, maintenance and depreciation; consequently, it would prevent housing being made available to families of low incomes, because it would be impossible for a housing authority to give the tenants the benefit of a federal or other grant."

German Club Members Hold First Initiation

Initiation of second year German students of Appleton High school into Der Deutsche Verein, school German club, took place at a picnic this week near the home of Louis Boon. Miss Boon was picnic chairman and Eunice Kaufman planned the supper. Miss Sophia Hasse and Miss Irene Bosserman are faculty advisors for the club.

Trade School Class To Work in Harmony

A class in harmony for professional musicians, supplementary to their regular employment in the field, will be taught at the vocational school on Tuesday and Thursday evenings when the fall schedule opens the week of Oct. 11.

The method of teaching will be entirely new for an elementary course. Beginning with a lesson reviewing the letters of the staff, all subsequent problems are in analysis of measures from familiar music.

The student completing the course will be schooled in recognizing chords and harmonic devices used in folk song and symphony. There is a large enough registration, another class will be held at 1:30 on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

The course is of 20-week duration, but does not include singing or instrumentation.

Firm Belief in Peace Will Crumble Armies, Dr. Evans Tells D. A. R. Convention

WAR WILL CEASE some day because war has no right in the supreme court of the world which is reason and conscience. Dr. Silas Evans, president of Ripon college, said in a talk entitled "National Defense for Peace" before Daughters of the American Revolution at a banquet last night at Riverview Country club which was part of the program for the state convention of the organization in progress in Appleton this week.

The speaker stated that there is only one reason for war and that is the world believes in war, but he expressed the belief that men are getting to believe less in it in the realm of inwardness and that finally will come belief in peace.

Firmly built, the peace idea will crumble armies and navies, he said, adding that that is the way they should crumble. He scored the idea which many seem to hold that "you can't change human nature" and that because there have always been wars there will always be wars, calling this belief "the greatest heresy against Christianity." Whole areas of civilization have been changed, he added, pointing to the abolition of slavery, piracy and other evils which no longer exist in civilized countries.

America believes in the idea of peace, Dr. Evans said, and the time will come when she will have it. He voiced the conviction that if America, Great Britain and Germany should unite to say that they would make world peace their avowed policy, they could get it right now.

Dr. Evans spoke of the idea of the federation of the world in the bonds of peace as a solution to the problem of war. He stated that he does not believe in the dead weight of order as opposed to the power of an idea, and went on to explain that two great ideas have dominated the world, the idea of militarism and the idea of peace. Both the militarist and pacifist are idealists, he stated, and both hold theories based on human nature.

"But I like the word, 'American,' too well to be either a pacifist or a militarist," he added, stating "We'll have wars until we find another way for settling our troubles, a substitute for war."

Has Place in History Dr. Evans expressed his admiration for the place the military has taken in history, stating that he holds in high regard the British navy and army for having maintained freedom of the seas and taken a commanding voice in Europe on many delicate issues. He pointed to the fact that this country might have been two nations struggling for supremacy against each other had it not been for the northern navy blockading southern ports.

He voiced his agreement with the words of President Taft who said that until some way is secured for settling problems, prudence and patriotism demand that the United States maintain an army and navy commensurate with its wealth, dignity and strength as a means of defense. He lauded the R.O.T.C. of which there is a unit at Ripon college, saying that it makes young men hate war and adding that if war should come, its members will go to save lives rather than destroy them. And the fact that these young men are ready to go will make someone less anxious to start a war, he said.

Supporting the idea of national defense, Dr. Evans said those people are blind who would disarm completely, for, he concluded, there are worse things than death and worse things than war.

Nixon Sings Preceding Dr. Evans' talk, George Nixon sang the state D.A.R. song, "Star of Wisconsin," and two other selections, "I Love a Little Cot-

ADDRESS D. A. R. STATE SESSIONS

Speakers at the Thursday afternoon and evening sessions of the state convention of Daughters of the American Revolution which is being held in Appleton included Mrs. George B. Averill, left, Milwaukee, national vice president general of the organization and a past state regent, and Dr. Silas Evans, right, president of Ripon college. Mrs. Averill spoke in the afternoon on the D.A.R. Good Citizenship Pilgrimage sponsored each spring for high school girls, and Dr. Evans who spoke at the banquet last night at Riverview Country club on "National Defense for Peace."

Woman's Club to Sponsor Performance by Dramatist

WHEN Mary Waterstreet, monologist and dramatist, brings her program to Appleton High school auditorium under the auspices of Appleton Woman's club on Oct. 21, first ladies of the land will live again in the impersonations of mistresses of the White House which she will give.

The performance, written and acted by Miss Waterstreet, is historical, picturesque and entertaining, containing all the drama, humor, and pathos of the presidential administrations down through the years. Her costumes of satins, taffetas, velvets and laces will be a veritable museum as they are exact reproductions of the gowns owned and worn by the first ladies which are now on exhibit in the United States National museum in Washington, D. C. Reproductions have been difficult in some cases, a few having required hand finishing for accuracy. Hair arrangement for each character has been designed to represent the coiffures of that period. Authenticity has been checked by J. E. Graf, associate director of the United States National museum, and T. T. Belote, curator of history at the Smithsonian Institution.

In order to make her program authentic, Miss Waterstreet visited many historical homes of the presidents' families and made an exhaustive investigation of home lives and personalities which give the program variety. She has read all available material not only about the wives but on current history of each administration, and as a result "Mistresses of the White House" gives a fine idea of the history of the United States.

All Saints Church to Hold Festival

THE annual harvest festival of All Saints Episcopal parish will be held Sunday. General rejoicing and festive worship surrounding the harvest is usually held on Thanksgiving day in this country. All Saints church, however, to make the service of greater parochial and community interest and significance has modeled its harvest festival each year on the ancient festival days of old England. The nearest approximation to the feasting and rejoicing that can be arrived at is the dinner for all the parishioners which is held in the parish hall immediately after the church service.

This service, of music and prayer together with a sermon, is the spiritual pointing of minds and hearts toward the Source of all, the dinner with all members present is the more human pointing of minds and hearts toward fellowship and good will. To make the gathering include everyone there will be no church school on that day, children being expected to attend the service with their parents.

Ruth Milbauer Married To Milwaukee Man Today

At a ceremony at 11 o'clock this morning in the Clintonville Methodist church, Miss Ruth Mary Milbauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Milbauer, Clintonville, became the bride of Paul Jay Singer of Milwaukee. The bride's sister, Inez, was her only attendant, and Bud Singer, Milwaukee, was best man. Donald Olen, Clintonville, acted as ushers and Mrs. Olen played the wedding march. # Court Change Opposed at D. A. R. Meet

OPPOSITION to supreme court change and to all attempts to change the constitution and the system of government by any means other than those provided in the constitution was expressed in resolutions adopted this morning by the Wisconsin Daughters of the American Revolution at their forty-first state conference, in session here at the First Methodist Episcopal church.

"Since our conference of one year ago, there has appeared increasing evidence in the nation of a movement whose ultimate result would change the form of government of the United States of America," the organization charged. "That change is sought through a misinterpretation of our great constitution which would destroy the system of checks and balances by which the power of our government is divided between the three branches, executive, legislative and judiciary, protecting each against the others."

"During the 150 years of our national life, the many changes made necessary by our progress and development as a nation always have been made by the method provided for that purpose in the constitution itself. Be it resolved, therefore, that we, Daughters of the American Revolution in Wisconsin, are opposed to all attempts to change our constitution or system of government, by any means other than those provided in the constitution of the United States — in other words, the people themselves. Be it further resolved, that we pledge anew our zealous activity to promote among our people a better understanding of the constitution itself, what it assures to us, what it safeguards for us and the measure of our duty and the dire need to protect and defend it."

Seek Tolerance
Another resolution was aimed at "groups and factions in our land which are setting one group against another, and stirring up hatred one for another." It pledged the Daughters of the American Revolution to carry into their communities the demand that the rights of freedom of religion, of speech and the press, and the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the government for a redress of grievance, as expressed in the Bill of Rights, be preserved, with the "same wise tolerance toward those of different races and religious beliefs" as was in the hearts of the founders of the government.

Resolutions expressing appreciation for the hospitality of the Appleton and Neenah chapters; for continuing the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the signing of the constitution; and assisting with the observance of the 150th anniversary of the Ordinance of 1787 were also adopted.

Guest speaker at this morning's session was Mrs. William H. Schlosser, state regent of Indiana, and national vice chairman, central division, Daughters of the American Revolution Student Loan Fund. As most of the convention speakers had done before her, Mrs. Schlosser emphasized the importance of youth in the society's program.

Child Training Vital
"The most important task facing Daughters of the American Revolution today is the training of our boys and girls to be good American citizens," she declared. "Let us give every child a chance to develop an ability and use it for the good of the community."

Pleading for a renaissance of moral and spiritual values, Mrs. Schlosser said that youth must be taught not only to do something but also to be something. The aims of her student loan fund committee, she explained, are education for citizenship and creation of an enlightened public opinion, based on the Christian doctrine that service rendered to others is the surest source of satisfaction.

"We must teach youth that liberty comes only through obedience to law and devotion to truth," she said. "We must create in our young people an intelligent love of country by giving them its background, heritage and tradition and a fundamental understanding of the philosophy of our government."

A brief memorial service, in charge of the state chaplain, Mrs. Louis A. Packer, Wausau, followed Mrs. Schlosser's address. Marshall Hubert, Appleton, sang during the service. Invocation at the opening of this morning's session was said by the Rev. John B. Hanna, pastor of the First Congregational church. The convention will close with a final business meeting this afternoon.

Yindra Holds Up Charges Of Road Fund Diversion

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison — Only because house rules during the special legislative session are strict is he allowing his charges of highway fund diversion drop for the present, Assemblyman Francis Yindra, Manitowoc county Democrat, said here yesterday.

Yindra declared that he had prepared a resolution which would have directed the director of the budget to prepare a financial statement to show the government's financial state of the government's finances, a statement which he claimed was due at the end of fiscal year June 30, 1937, but which has not yet been published. Yindra holds that the reason for the delay in the publication of the balance sheet is the fear of betrayal of highway fund diversion.

James Borden, budget director, pointed to statutes to prove that he is not required to prepare a statement at any specific time, and that when it is prepared, it is published only at the direction of the governor. The governor has not yet requested the statement, he said, and it will not be completed until sometime in November.

Mr. Borden said that the delay was not deliberate, but necessitated by delays in the closing of books of some of the larger state departments, such as the secretary of state's office and the state university.

Medical School Reports Electrical Detection of Birth Control Mystery

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
New Haven, Conn.—(AP)—Electrical detection of the unsolved mystery of birth control, the brief time in which a woman can become a mother, was reported today from the Yale medical school.

This period, the medical profession has agreed, lasts from a few hours to a day or two, once a month, but when it should be expected is a matter of sharp disagreement.

The Yale electrical detection is something new in science, the third report of its kind in the last two years.

An operation, which had to be performed for other reasons, verified the telltale behavior of an electric current. The story is told today in Science, official journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, by H. S. Burr, L. K. Musselman, Dorothy S. Barton and Naomi B. Kelly of the departments of neuro-anatomy and obstetrics and gynecology.

While a woman was waiting for her operation, medical attendants took the voltages of the very small electric currents which flow from all human beings. These are picked up easily by pasting tiny electrodes on the skin or other surfaces.

One of these wires was connected with an area beneath which the two pelvic bones join. The other recorded the current from one of the reproductive organs.

Currents were reported in millionths of a volt and for several days they showed a uniform difference between the two areas. The difference was about ten millionths of a volt in electrical potential. One area was positive, electrically, and the other negative.

One day about noon the negative area turned positive. It took a comparatively big electrical jump to about eighty millionths of a volt. This occurred at the time of month when previous medical examinations had fixed the probable date of possibility of pregnancy.
Verification came the day after the electrical change. The woman was operated upon and it was found that an ovum had been released. The release, it was further established, had coincided with the electrical signs on the exterior of the body.

Hold Funeral of Woman Killed in Family Quarrel

Husband Who Confessed The Slaying, Recovering In Green Bay Hospital

As Philip Sebastian was recovering today from wounds received in a fatal quarrel with his wife at their home in the town of Hobart, Brown county, Wednesday, funeral services were conducted for the wife, whom Sebastian had confessed he hacked to death with an axe.

The Rev. W. T. Ream, DePere, was in charge of the services. Sebastian is confined to a Green Bay hospital, under guard, with his throat cut. He said the wound was inflicted by his wife in an attack upon him with a knife. She also had forced him to drink kerosene, he said.

The fatal quarrel started at the Green Bay courthouse where Sebastian had taken his wife for an insanity examination. Doctors declared her sane. He was attacked, Sebastian told Brown county authorities, by his wife after her return home. Authorities have deferred Sebastian's arraignment until he recovers. Unless complications set in, he will be discharged from the hospital within a few days.

View Body
After viewing the victim's body yesterday a coroner's jury visited the scene of quarrel. The day before her death, Mrs. Sebastian gave a neighbor a number of papers to keep and among them was a story she had written of her life.

In the story she told of her early life in Austria and of her trip to America. She lived in Chicago where she met Sebastian and married him after six months, she said. Later they moved to a farm in the town of Oneida and lived in that vicinity since, she related.

The story pointed to strained relations with her husband and she said she would move to an old people's home if she had enough money. Another woman, she said, was trying to take her husband from her. The papers are being held for the inquest in her death which will be held when Sebastian recovers.

Four Injured in Highway Crashes

Occupants of Two Cars Escape With Minor Cuts and Bruises

Four persons suffered minor injuries as two accidents were reported to Outagamie county police yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Ardell, 1817 N. Clark street, were hurt when a car driven by Mrs. Louis Miltz, route 1, Menasha, went off the Highway 10 detour just west of the city and crashed into a deep ditch. Mrs. Ardell had a bruised forehead and cut lip. Ardell suffered a cut on the nose and above an eye. Sheriff John Lappen and County Motor Vehicle Officer Jack Frenzli investigated and the injured were treated by a local physician.

Fred Thieman, Jr., Juneau and Frank Wiess, route 2, Juneau, were hurt when their car, driven by Thieman, went into a ditch on Highway 45, three miles southwest of New London, shortly before 12 o'clock yesterday morning. The car collided with a telephone pole after it left the highway. Thieman was bruised about the head and Wiess had a possible cracked rib.

Find No Trace of Men Who Robbed Post Office

Waupaca—No trace of two men who burglarized the Clintonville post office Sept. 18 has been found, according to Waupaca county authorities. They used an acetylene torch to enter the post office safe and police got on their trail shortly after in the belief they were automobile thieves.

man estimated at 10 or 15 years his junior" when he was admitted to Mendota last July 7.

The investigator found that Fredrickson suffered numerous abrasions during a period of 10 to 15 minutes while he was led about 350 feet to a ward by "three or four strong young men," all of whom "have been consistent in their statements that the resistance was to the extreme that the individual was capable of."

Dr. Bryant's conclusion was that the attendants showed no brutality or maliciousness, and "it is quite possible that they did not use more force than was necessary to cause a man in his situation to traverse the distance stated."

Judge Werner Grants Appleton Woman Divorce

Cooler Weather To Follow Rain

Temperature Starts Drop This Morning as Wind Freshens

Cooler weather in the wake of the autumn rain that attended the arrival of October is forecast for tonight in Appleton and vicinity by the weather man.

Weather through out the state will be unsettled tomorrow. The showers that started last night, continued this morning, and then rained towards noon produced almost a half-inch of rainfall. The exact measurement recorded at the Wisconsin Michigan Power Company plant was .48 of an inch.

The temperature stood at 57 at 9 o'clock this morning, the lowest in the 24 hours preceding that time, and then, as the rain abated, began to drop. At 12:30 this afternoon the thermometer atop the Post-Crescent building registered 54 degrees. A raw wind was moving in from the northeast.

Showers are predicted for tonight in the south portion of the state, indicating that Wisconsin and Marquette University may have a damp field before them when they renew their grid iron feud tomorrow at Madison.

Phoenix with 92 and Winnemucca, Nevada, with 32 were the warmest and coldest spots in the nation yesterday.

WPA Summer Recreation Program Ends in County

RETIRED PHYSICIAN DIES

Merrill, Wis.—Dr. Michael Ravn, 65, physician and surgeon and founder of the Ravn clinic here, died yesterday. Funeral services will be held Monday, Ravn studied medicine in Germany, France, Norway and Sweden.

The left cheek fracture, the investigator found, "was no doubt caused by his falling against a bed in the room in which he was confined while tottering about in a fashion amiable because of the senile delirium from which he was suffering, and quite probably precipitated by a combination of dizziness engendered by his toxic condition and tripping over his own or stumbling over a small table in his room."

Dr. Ravn questioned the advisability of the family's having placed Frederickson in an ambulance and taken him 170 miles to Whitehall in his condition, although the doctor said clinical pneumonia had not yet set in when "they might have removed him to any one of four Class A hospitals in the city of Madison, immediately at hand, had they chosen to do so. However, it must be considered that they were comparative strangers in Madison and that they had great confidence in their local physicians and local hospital, which was well."

Suit to Determine if Old Laws on Canoe Portage are In Effect in Badger State

Eagle River, Wis.—(AP)—A lawsuit to determine whether a 150-year-old congressional ordinance designating canoe portage trails as common highways is of legal application today in Wisconsin, soon will be tried in circuit court.

A fence, for which there was little use in the vast Northwest Territory in 1787, is the bone of contention. The plaintiffs, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Lundberg, claim a wire fence stretched across a famous canoe portage trail between Tenderfoot and Plum lakes, on the Wisconsin-Michigan border, in Vilas county, prevents them from using the trail as a natural point of entry to their summer resort on an island in Tenderfoot lake.

The defendants are Martin Gillen, Racine capitalist and lawyer, and Notre Dame university, Gillen, who ordered erection of the fence, has donated a 6,000-acre tract in the vicinity to the university. The bulk of the acreage is in Michigan.

Trial Set for Oct. 11
The fence was cut shortly after its erection and the trail is open to the public pending trial of the suit, scheduled for Oct. 11, under a court injunction.

The Lundbergs ask establishment of the trail as a highway. County Judge Frank W. Carter of Eagle River, the Lundbergs' counsel, stated he would cite the Ordinance of 1787, as well as the Wisconsin law which provides that any highway is legally established if used for 20 years.

Article 4 of the ordinance reads: "The navigable waters leading into the Mississippi and St. Lawrence and the carrying places between the same shall be common highways and forever free, as well to the inhabitants of the said (Northwest) territory as to the citizens of the United States and those of any other states that may be admitted to the confederacy, without any tax, impost or duty therefor."

Tenderfoot and Plum lakes drain into the Ontonagon river, which flows into Lake Superior. Gillen said the barrier is "a legal fence." It crosses a footpath of trail, he added. The supreme court, he said, has passed on the question many times.

Gillen said the suit arises over the use to which the land is to be put. He said Notre Dame's plans for the use of the property are largely settled, but not mature enough in detail to make public announcement at this time. It was reported the tract might be the site of a boys' camp.

The Wisconsin Y. M. C. A. and the Milwaukee chapter of the Izak Walton league have taken an interest in the case and plan to have their counsel appear as friends of the court.

The interest of these organizations lies in the fact that if the Gillen fence is permitted to stand, land owners may erect similar barriers on any hundreds of portage trails in Wisconsin. This, they claim, practically would end canoe trips through country which long has been famous for them. The Y. M. C. A. is directly concerned because canoe trips are a feature of the summer program at its Camp Manitowish on Boulder lake, southwest of Tenderfoot lake.

Award $1,800 in Accident Suit

Second Action in Damage Case Settled Out Of Court

A circuit court jury yesterday afternoon found Ervin Carew, Waupaca, negligent in a highway accident and awarded Luther Volz, $1,800 damages. The case was tried before Judge Edgar V. Werner. Another action in the same case in which Claire Leahy, town of Farmington, asked damages of $5,000 from Volz, Farmers Mutual Insurance company and Carew, was settled out of court before the case went to the jury.

The actions were a result of an accident on Highway 41 near New London on Sept. 20, 1936. Leahy was riding in a car being driven by Carew when it was involved in an accident with a machine driven by Volz. The jury found damages of $150 for Carew, but also found that Volz was not negligent. The jury case opened Tuesday.

October Weather Gives Impetus to Civic Activities

Sports, Conventions, Social Events on Appleton Calendar

The advent of October's famed bright blue weather, neither bright nor blue today, gives new impetus to civic activity in Appleton if the busy program of football, harvest festivals, conventions, financial drives and parties scheduled for this month is any indication.

Among the distinguished visitors in town will be Dr. Clarence A. Dykstra, president of the University of Wisconsin, who will speak Oct. 27 at a banquet for the Fox River Valley alumni of the University of Wisconsin, and T. J. Melvin, special agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Milwaukee, who will talk on crime before the Appleton branch of the American Association of University Women on Oct. 13.

There will be a football game in town every Saturday. Appleton High school will play its first home football game Saturday against Sheboygan, and the following Saturday, Oct. 9, Lawrence college will play Carlton here as a feature of Dad's day at the college. On Oct. 16 the high school will play Fond du Lac here, and the next Saturday, Oct. 23, it will play another home game, with Elgin, Green Bay as the opponent. Lawrence college homecoming is scheduled for Oct. 30, with a football game against Ripon in the afternoon.

The only other important event on the local sports calendar for this month is the beginning of the amateur boxing shows, Oct. 21 at Armory G.

Solemn Triduum
Beginning today and continuing through Sunday, there is a golden triduum in honor of St. Francis at St. Joseph's church. Dr. Francis E. Bieler, C. Ss.R., Oconomowoc, will preach each evening. Another church event of this coming Sunday is the annual harvest festival of All Saints Episcopal church, with a special service at 11 o'clock and a parish dinner at noon, served by St. Agnes Guild.

On Oct. 7 the third biennial state convention of the Women's Missionary Federation of the American Lutheran church will meet at the local First English Lutheran church. Planned for the same day is the World Fellowship Institute sponsored at First Baptist church by the Interdenominational Women's Federation of Appleton. Also of interest on the church calendar this month is the Congregational ministerial meeting of ministers from 30 nearby churches, which will be held Oct. 12 at the First Congregational church. Dr. Hugh Vernon White, secretary of the American board of commissioners of foreign missions, will be present.

From Monday of next week until the following Monday, the Y. M. C. A. will conduct its annual round-up, a finance and membership drive. Next week is also national fire prevention week.

Trades School Opens
In the schools October is important because it means the opening of lyceum programs in the senior and junior high schools; the opening of the vocational school on Oct. 11; and the starting of rehearsals for a play to be selected Oct. 4 by the high school junior play group. The Valley Council, Boy Scout commissioners will have a fall conference Oct. 9 and 10 at Gardner dam, and from Oct. 9 to 23 open house programs will be conducted by all scout troops of the Valley Council.

County board committees will be meeting this month to prepare for the November session of the board. Other county activities of general interest are the meeting of the airport committee next Monday night to award a contract for building the new airport hangar, and completion some time this month of the county oiling program.

The month will be a busy one socially. Planned for tomorrow night is the final dinner-dance at River-view Country club, and on Oct. 16 North Shore Golf club will have a similar party. Lawrence college's first all-college dance will take place Oct. 9; the Roosevelt school Parent-Teachers association will have a card party Oct. 11; Knights of Columbus will observe Landing day with an informal dinner-dance at the Conway hotel Oct. 14; Modern Woodmen of America will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the local camp with a dinner at Rain-

600 Farmers of New London Area See Horse Show

Shiocton Team Wins in Pulling Contest for Heavy Class

New London—About 600 farmers of the New London area turned out for the forty-seventh horse-pulling contest and colt show in the state this year at the stock fair grounds here yesterday. The all-day program was sponsored by the New London Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Wisconsin Horse Breeders association and the department of agriculture at Madison.

James G. Fuller of the college of agriculture, judged the colt show and directed the pulling contests. Criticisms and advice were offered as each event took place.

Feature event of the day was the horse pulling contest in which a lively interest developed. Pulling teams were handicapped by the soft footing which was encountered. Not scheduled in the program was a series of pulls by single horses. The idea originated when Charles Zimmer's team failed to coordinate efforts and one horse did all the pulling.

The horse in question, a 13-year-old gray mare, showed so much spirit that the crowd requested the horse be given a chance to show alone. Zimmer complied and at the first attempt on a load of 1,500 pounds the traces broke. While a new harness was being secured other farmers tested their horses singly. On the second attempt Zimmer's mare pulled gamely but barely budged the load. When set at 1,600 the horse took the load away easily to the delight of the crowd. Prizes were given for the single horse pulls.

Pulls 3,100 pounds

First place in the heavy class was taken by Arthur Peters, Shiocton, with a team of 3,950 pounds. The pair pulled a load of 3,100 pounds a distance of 12 feet. Second place went to Albert Knapp, New London, when his 3,600-pound team pulled 2,300 pounds a distance of 17 1/2 feet. Teams qualified for the next highest weight by pulling one weight the regulation distance of 27 1/2 feet in one continuous pull. The team won that pulled the greatest weight the longest distance.

In the light class first place was won by Claud Armitage of Black Creek when his team pulled a load of 2,000 pounds 24 feet. The team winning second place belonged to Stephen E. Nalon of Manawa and was driven by a 10-year-old boy, Jimmy Egan of Sugar Bush. Jimmy drove the team 11 feet with a 2,500-pound load. Third place went to Ed Warning of Hortonville whose team pulled the 2,500-pound load only one-half foot and Charles Zimmer placed fourth when his one-sided team pulled 2,100 pounds a distance of 10 feet.

Wins in Single Class

Honors in the single pulls went to Art Peters whose horse pulled the 1,000-pound load 16 feet. Claud Armitage's light team pulled the same load three feet. Out of the prize class, Knapp's heavy horse pulled the load four feet. Exhibition pulls were given by Peters and Armitage.

Judges in the pulling contests were Tom Smith, George Fleese and L. M. Warner. The latter was general chairman of the event. The dynamometer truck was under the supervision of Justin Waterman of the agriculture engineering department. Waterman aided in the design and construction of the truck and has spent the past summer conducting contests with it.

Following are the awards in the colt show: Class 1, draft foal born before June 1, 1937, first, Clair Fleese, New London; second, M. T. McLaughlin, New London; Class 2, draft foal born after June 1, 1937, first, Rueben Klueck, route 1, Appleton; second, Arthur McHugh, New London; third, Lloyd Schultz, Hortonville; fourth, M. T. McLaughlin, New London; fifth, Joe Clegg, New London; sixth, Warren Larsen, New London.

Store Building Damaged by Fire

Believe Blaze at New London Started by Spontaneous Combustion

New London—Fire believed to have started by spontaneous combustion caused considerable damage at the rear of the Gamble Store building on North Water street at 11 o'clock last night.

The fire apparently started in a corner where motor oil and lined oil drums were stored and quickly spread through most of the small storage room. The drums remained intact but a supply of brooms, and axe handles and rolls of roofing paper were partially damaged while a case of auto and radio parts was destroyed. Heat caused some damage on the second floor when a rug ignited.

With the last spark extinguished, firemen boarded up the rear door and window about an hour after the alarm was turned in by Night Officer Al Stern. The blaze attracted a large crowd of onlookers at the late hour. John Cahill, manager of the store, was called to the scene immediately.

New London Fans Will Follow Team To Kaukauna Tilt

Three Regulars Will be Out of Lineup for Conference Game

New London—A large fan following is expected at Kaukauna tomorrow afternoon as the New London gridders will engage in what appears to be their crucial contest of the season. If the light and inexperienced Red and White squad can't manage a victory over the Kaukauna team this year they undoubtedly will have to be content with a chance at Clintonville at the close of the schedule.

Many New London fans are planning to attend what promises to be a close scrap whatever the result and the team is assured of plenty of moral support. It is planned to transport the entire high school band to Kaukauna Saturday afternoon.

With two games already put away, the Stacyens apparently will still show as mostly inexperienced hands tomorrow with three regular heavies out of play for certain. Hayward, tackle, has a broken nose; Evans Stern, guard, is still nursing a sprained ankle, and Paul Knapstein, the other guard, has received doctor's orders not to play tomorrow. Francis Meinhardt, regular end and about the only passable kicker on the squad, was still home yesterday recovering from a cold.

Working in the vacant positions yesterday were Ken Poppy at guard, Jim Meshnick at tackle and Walt Thorn at end. Except for Meshnick the other two are rank tenderfoots, and other replacements are little better in weight, experience or ability. Fine points of plays were drilled on yesterday.

Kaukauna's Coach Little apparently believes such discouraging reports but so far the Stacyens have merited solely on their fighting spirit and no doubt will give the Littlemen a real run for their money tomorrow.

Four Unhurt When Auto Strikes Pole

Car Badly Damaged in Traffic Accident Near New London

New London—Four persons escaped without injury when their car left Highway 45 about two miles south of New London at noon yesterday and crashed into a telephone pole. The pole was broken and the car seriously damaged but Fred Thieman, Jr., Norman and Norville Key, and Frank Weise, all of Juneau, Wis., were unhurt.

Weise was believed to have suffered a rib fracture and was taken to Appleton by a passing motorist but returned to New London after examination by a physician. The man and three boys were heading north on a fishing trip but all returned to Juneau last night when a wrecker returned with the car. Thieman was driving his father's car and said he lost control of the machine when it dropped off the concrete onto a low shoulder as he swerved to meet an oncoming car.

Terrors Oppose Sheboygan Tomorrow

Highs Appearing Before Home Fans For First Time

Springer, Guard and Mueller, Tackle, May be Missing

CONFERENCE STANDINGS	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Appleton	1	0	0	1.000
Sheboygan	0	1	0	.000
Fond du Lac	0	0	1	.000
Oshkosh	0	1	0	.000
W. Green Bay	0	1	0	.000
E. Green Bay	0	0	0	.000

FRIDAY NIGHT
Marquette at Oshkosh (non-conference).
LaCrosse Central at West Green Bay (non-conference).

SATURDAY AFTERNOON
East Green Bay at Fond du Lac.
Sheboygan at Appleton.

COACH Wallace Cole will show his Appleton High school football team to a home crowd tomorrow afternoon at Whiting field of Lawrence college for the first time this season. The game will start at 2:15 with Sheboygan High school the opponent and the game a Fox River Valley conference contest. The Terrors have one win in one start in conference play.

Terrors closed heavy drills last evening at the Spencer street field with several shifts in the backfield. Laverne Bergner was used in the fullback position with Fred Oliver calling the signals. Whether Coach Cole intends to use that combination at any time Saturday is a question, but at any rate it is available. Bergner now has played just about every position on the squad. He's been in most of the line positions and now is trying the backfield.

May Make Changes
At least one and maybe two changes will have to be made in the Terrors line. Springer, guard, has a bad ankle and may not be able to start while Mueller, tackle, has an injured hip and hasn't been out for a couple days. Kamps may start at the guard position and Kramer or Olson at tackle.

There hasn't been much scrimmaging for the Terrors this week, aside from some pretty firm demands by Line Coach Myron Seims that the linemen charge and show a little speed. However, considerable time has been spent on passes with the tosses being good, fair and often times not so good.

Indications are the Terrors will show Hebel at center, Kamps or Kenny and Arndt at the guards, Harmsen and Kramer or Alfson at the tackles, and Reider and Bergner at the end.

In the backfield Filz probably will be at the tailback position. Hoepfner at half and Oliver at full with Sample calling the signals. Sheboygan has a veteran combination headed by Captain Klein, Schmidt who will be remembered as the young fellow who engineered Appleton's defeat at Sheboygan last year in a game the Terrors were doped to win easily. He can do everything well and will be a threat as long as he's on the field.

Two Scoreless Ties
The Chaires appeared in two games so far this season and played scoreless ties in both. All of which indicates they have a strong defense and an offense that may be dangerous with three weeks of drills behind it. The entire squad is much heavier than last year.

The only other conference game scheduled Saturday will have Green Bay East at Fond du Lac. The Cardinals are showing as result of their good shooting at Sheboygan and with Captain Benny Wagner leading the way they look for their first win. East was ragged at Marquette last week but Coach Tom Hearden has been rubbing off the rough spots and should have his charges in top form.

Two conference schools are playing night games tonight against non-conference opponents. Oshkosh is taking on Marquette at Oshkosh and as the Indians suffered a defeat last week they may not have the stuff to hurdle the northern team. The Marines are reported to be tough on defense and probably will have their offense clicking, too.

Green Bay West has drawn LaCrosse Central for this evening and

Menasha, Neenah in Crucial Games

Chaff'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

TURNING our bridges behind us, sticking out our chins, climbing far out on the limb and all similar things, we'll pick 'em like this:

Appleton-Sheboygan — The Chairs haven't put over a touchdown in two games, neither have they been scored upon in two games. All of which indicates that the battle with the Terrors will be close. We haven't seen anything in the way of a potent Appleton offense although Filz and Oliver can travel. We'll pick Appleton, but how they'll do it we don't know.

Lawrence-Cornell — Several times last week Lawrence staged definite marches into enemy territory and scored twice as a result. During practices this week the offense looked pretty fair, but with Maerz-willer out of the lineup or used only sparingly it looks bad for the Vikings.

Wisconsin-Marquette — How we wish we knew all about this game, we'd make a lot of money either way.

Doc Hegner's certain it will be Marquette; Glenn Arthur's certain it will be Wisconsin and Eddie Sternard is offering (or did) 2 to 1 on Wisconsin. So it looks like the Badgers but we're betting on an upset by Marquette, or at least not a defeat.

Shawano-Neenah — Neenah can furnish the league with an upset in this game but we're inclined to stick with Shawano even if its offense wasn't so hot last week.

Menasha-West DePere — What a battle this promises to be. Both teams probably will score but we'll pick—Menasha.

New London-Kaukauna — If we pick either of these teams the other coach will prime his boys on the idea we picked 'em to lose. So we'll put our guess under the letter G in our file and wait until Saturday evening. How's that Messrs. Little and Stacy?

Marquette-Oshkosh — Marquette staged a great battle against East last week while Oshkosh wasn't so good in losing to Manitowoc. Therefore, Marquette.

La Crosse Central-Green Bay West — Don't know a thing about La Crosse but West doesn't seem to have so much. La Crosse.

Green Bay East-Fond du Lac — Fond du Lac appeared to have a defense in stopping Sheboygan but we don't believe it can stop East's Red Devils.

Menasha St. Mary's-Kimberly — Looks like the end of the victory string for the Papermakers. They haven't the size and the Saints have passed.

St. John, Little Chute-St. John, Milwaukee — The Chutes have been hard hit by injuries. The Milwaukee school is also too big.

Packers-Detroit — We'd like to see the Packers win but they've got to show us first.

Clintonville-Marion — If Clintonville plays as poorly as last week, Marion.

St. Norbert-Milwaukee Teachers — Mickey McCormick's Green Knights, of course.

Lake Forest-Beloit — Beloit has a good new team while Lake Forest has a good veteran outfit. A questionable vote for Lake Forest.

Carleton-Ripon — Carleton is gunning for another league title. It played Coe last week and won. Ripon played Marquette and showed a strong defense. However, the Crimson played hard and had more taken out of it than Carleton. We'll vote for Carleton.

Nebraska-Minnesota — It may be news when Cooper nips a Cornhusker but Nebraska, strong as it can be on its home grounds at Lincoln, seems fated to be over-powered by Bernie Bierman's collection of Minnesota stalwarts. Nebraska will miss Cardwell and Francis, last year's aces, Minnesota.

Vanderbilt-Chicago — Except for an occasional Jay Berwanger, those scholarly Chicago undergraduates aren't much help to head Coach Clark Shaughnessy. Vanderbilt.

Ohio State-Purdue — Purdue, sparked by Cecil Isbell, is tough but this wavering vote goes to Ohio State.

West Virginia-Fitt — Talking about magicians, Jack Sutherland surely can pull those "rabbit" backs out of hat, Pitt, breezing.

Cornell-New York University — May be Bill Kern has worked as fast enough at Carnegie to get the Tartans ready for this. On a hunch, Carnegie.

Michigan-Michigan State — Who let this one in? Michigan, on the dead run.

Notre Dame-Drake — Elmer Layden unveils what promises to be a very fine Notre Dame team. Notre Dame.

Detroit papers insist that Leo Maycen, Sheboygan Bottoms-Up pitcher, has been given a Tiger contract. But Leo hasn't seen, heard and hardly imagined any such thing. So he's being congratulated but still insists he hasn't seen a contract or even been approached.

Someone called the office yesterday morning and wanted to know the score of the Wisconsin-Marquette game last year. We told them the wrong figures on a guess. The score was 12 to 6.

Bill Schroeder, Manitowoc, formerly with Pere Clapp at Idaho has told friends that Kenzie Carberry, Manitowoc, will be a first string guard at the U of Idaho this season.

Rollie Winters of Appleton, Willott of Marquette and George Willott of Marquette will be a lot of action at fullback. Both Winters and Willott were at Lawrence until Clapp went west.

Lawrence Fraternity Golfers Show Tomorrow

Lawrence college fraternity golfers will clash at Butte des Morts course starting at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, Coach Arthur C. Denney announced today. Each Fraternity will enter a 2-man team for the 18 hole joust. It will be a medal play tournament with team scores counting in the final compilations. The winning team will take the interfraternity golf trophy and each group will be awarded points toward the interfraternity sports trophy. Last year the Phi Delta team won the golf title. The fraternities have voted to add bowling to their sports program and the schedule will be started in a few days. Touch football competition will be started next week.

SATURDAY'S GAMES
Shawano at Neenah.
West DePere at Menasha. (Friday night)
New London at Kaukauna.

Menasha — The Menasha High school and West DePere football teams will meet tonight at 8 o'clock on the Butte des Morts field in a crucial Northeastern Wisconsin conference game. Officials will be Art Denny of Lawrence, Werner Witte of Appleton and Alan Davey of Oshkosh.

Coach N. A. Calder expects a hard-fought ball game. The Bluejays have shown improvement in offense and defense during practice this week. Practice last night was short and consisted chiefly of final touches upon plays and kick-off drill.

The Bluejays will start practically the same lineup that has started the first two games. However, Westberg, Finch and Tate are certain to see action in the backfield. In the line Henry Osiewalski, Henry Landskron and Dalman will probably get into the game.

Opposing the Bluejays will be a veteran team that has played together for four years. In Berken, the Phantoms have an all-conference back, who leads the West DePere attack. He kicks, passes, and is a hard runner. He will probably outkick any of the Menasha punters. Heiss has received intensive drill this week in handling punts. His fumbling in the Milwaukee East game prevented possible run-backs on several occasions. The lines will be about even in weight, with any edge probably going to West DePere.

SHAWANO AT NEENAH
Neenah — The Christophers will receive their first conference test at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon on the Neenah High school gridiron when Shawano, leading contender for the Northeastern conference football championship, invades the city.

The game looks as of major importance to the Red Rockets and will determine whether the Neenah eleven will be in the running for the conference title.

Coach Christophers has converted Eugene Voelkel, formerly a guard, into a right tackle, and he will fill Turn to Page 18

Busy Weekend on Grid for State Schools; Carroll Off to Illinois

By the Associated Press
While Wisconsin and Marquette are renewing a traditional rivalry at Madison this week-end, liberal arts schools and teachers college football teams will be busy on many fronts.

Carroll, undefeated and untied in the 1936 season and winner of its first game last week over Milwaukee Teachers, will try to increase its string when it meets North Central at Naperville, Ill.

The strong St. Norbert college squad, winner of two games this year, meets Milwaukee Saturday at Milwaukee. Lake Forest invades Beloit for a night game tonight. Carleton is at Ripon and is rated as the underdog to the squad that held Marquette to 14 points last week. Lawrence travels to Mount Vernon, Ia., to meet Cornell. The Vikings opened the season with a 21 to 0 win over Northwestern college last Saturday. Jordan college is at home tonight to face Michigan Mining school.

Although no conference games are scheduled in the teachers circuit, eight of the teams will see action, some for the first time. Plattville travels to meet Illinois Normal and Whitewater is guest at Wheaton college, both in Illinois. River Falls takes on St. John's at Collegeville, Minn., and Superior is at Duluth Teachers for Saturday games.

Stevens Point, loser to St. Norbert in the season's opener last week, meets Stout Institute at Menominee.

CARRY "THE MAIL" FOR APPLETON HIGH ELEVEN

Here are three Appleton High school gridders who've been doing a lot of ball carrying for the Terrors in the two games the team has played. And tomorrow afternoon at Whiting field of Lawrence college they'll try to carry it often enough to beat Sheboygan and enable the Terrors to hang up another conference win. The boys are, left to right, Bud Hoepfner, who scored that touchdown against Green Bay West last week and who looks so small because he left his shoulder pads off, Sonny Filz, who registered twice against Menasha last week, and Fred Oliver, who hasn't scored yet but who covered a lot of ground last week at West. ### Even the Mayors Will be At Pre-Game Pep Session

MADISON — (U) — Rivalry between the University of Wisconsin and Marquette University football teams will reach a pre-game climax at a rally on the lower campus tonight in which supporters of both squads will participate.

Mayor Daniel W. Hoan of Milwaukee assured the pep meeting committee that he would accompany an advance contingent of Marquette fans and meet Mayor James R. Law of Madison in a verbal battle over the merits of the opposing gridders.

Wisconsin's 233 piece football band under the direction of Professor Ray Dvorak will take part in the rally.

Coaches Harry Stuhldrecher of Wisconsin and Paddy Driscoll of Marquette, meanwhile, will keep their players out of earshot of the booster festivities.

The Badger squad, smarting under two consecutive defeats at the hands of the Hippopotamuses, has completed intensive drill for tomorrow's game and will be given only light exercises this afternoon.

Coach Stuhldrecher put third and fourth stringers through offensive and defensive scrimmage against freshmen yesterday. The regulars tapered off with a pass and signal drill.

Stuhldrecher indicated three sophomores, Al Dorsch of Wausau, tackle, John Doyle of Eric, Pa. guard, and Billy Schmitt of Madison, halfback, will be in the starting lineup.

The veterans expected to start the game are Fred Benz, Milwaukee, and John Leehrke, Mayville, ends; Walter Cole, Madison, guard; Eugene Braden, Bonduel, tackle; Ervin Windward, Milwaukee, quarterback; Roy Bollin, Milwaukee, halfback; and Horie Weiss, Ft. Atkinson, fullback. Cole is acting captain.

Harry Schwenker, ticket sales manager, announced that about 3,000 seats were available late yesterday. A capacity crowd of about 37,000 is expected.

Giants Split and Clinch Second Straight N. L. Pennant

Hubbell Hurls Deciding Tilt; Cubs Trip Reds

King Carl Has Shutout Until Dolph Camilli Hits Homer

Associated Press Sports Writer
WITH the world series battle lineup all settled, and little old New York once more in exclusive possession, the also rans of the major league races settled down today to the business of picking the choicest spots remaining before the season ends Sunday.

When Carl Hubbell, the old conqueror, put on the clincher with a 5-hit, 2-1 win over the Phillies in the opener of a double bill yesterday—his 22nd of the year—the pennant races officially closed. The Giants had retained their National league laurels and qualified to tangle with their New York neighbors, the Yankees, in the series beginning next Wednesday.

It didn't matter that the Phils won the second game on the double bill, 6-2, against a makeshift lineup, or that the Yankees dropped their first twin bill of the year, losing 3-3 and 6-3 to the Athletics.

Yesterday's results also ended the fights for second place in both circuits. The jinxed Chicago Cubs, taking their fifth straight game by

DECIDE TODAY ON SERIES
Chicago — Whether the Cubs will play the Sox in the city series will be decided definitely today by P. K. Wrigley, owner of the National league club, it was announced yesterday following the New York Giants' victory over the Philadelphia Phillies which clinched the pennant. Cub officials said decision was being withheld pending Manager Charley Grimm's arrival in the city today. Previously Wrigley announced there would be no city series, but indications yesterday were that he is changing his mind.

Harry Grabner, vice president of the Sox, expressed willingness to meet the Cubs. The Sox, who will close their American league schedule with three games against the St. Louis Browns this week-end, defeated the Cubs in the spring series six games to five.

topping the Cincinnati Reds 4-1, rested securely in the National league runner-up spot, 8½ games in front of their nearest rivals. At the same time, the Detroit Tigers, despite a 10-3 kicking around by the St. Louis Browns yesterday, couldn't be ousted from the No. 2 American league berth.

Pirates Belt Cards
The rest of the first divisions in each loop remained in doubt, however. The Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 yesterday and took a 2½ game edge in the National league tussle for third position.

In the American league, the White Sox, in third place, 1½ games in front of the Cleveland Indians, will have a tough time fighting off the tribe. Just to make it tougher, the Tribe clubbed out a twin win over the Sox 6-4 and 4-1 yesterday.

There's an outside chance that both Boston clubs can better their current fifth place standings before the season winds up. The baffling Bees, taking a doubleheader from the Dodgers yesterday 6-2 and 3-2—thereby stretching the losing streak of the Brooklyn beauties to 14 straight—can overhaul the Cardinals by a slim percentage margin if things break right.

The Red Sox may get wind up in fourth place, although they didn't do much about it yesterday by gaining only an even break with the Senators, taking the nightcap 9-3 after dropping the opener 4-3 to their old teammate, Wes Ferrell.

I. D. SEGAL smashed the tenpins for a 675 series on games of 238, 236 and 201 to top yesterday's Grocer Bowling league.

Segal cracked out a 243 single game for individual game honors. A 2,954 series and a 1,060 team game gave the Jelke Good Luck bowlers team honors in addition to Segal's high scores which helped to build the total.

Three teams tied for first place in the league. Lietzen Grains lost two starts, the Good Lucks won three and the Wisconsin Distributing company squad won two to account for the 3-way knot.

The Good Luck team took its 3-game victory from the Outagamie Milks. Segal led the winners and J. Bosch smashed the wood for a 214 game and 551 series to lead the Milk team.

Elm Tree Bakers pulled the Lietzen Grains down to a first place knot by winning two games from the former league leaders. A. Daniels topped the pins for a 233 game and 555 series to head the Grains and L. Grishaber shot a 629 series on games of 207, 229 and 192 to pace the Elm Tree five. H. Lietzen hit a 224 game for his squad.

Two games were won by the Wisconsin Distributors over the Verifine Ice Creams. A 551 series rolled by H. Stedtfeld was high for the winners while J. Fromm cracked the maples for a 226 game and 557 series to pace the Verifine team.

P. Ott rolled a 201 game and 555 series to lead the Hoffman Bakers to a 2-game win over the Van Gorp Bakers. N. Kronschnabel smashed the wood for a high 243 game and 550 series to lead the losers.

Quality Biscuits cracked out a 3-game win over the Spiker Bakers squad. R. Hamm shot a 199 game and 583 series to lead the Biscuits while B. Delgen smashed the pins for a 202 game and 546 series to head the Spiker team.

Philadelphia—Hilarity reigned in the New York Giants' dressing room yesterday afternoon after they clinched the National league pennant by beating the Phillies, 2-1.

Shouts and cheers rang out as the triumphant players engaged in a celebration that had all the appearances of a combination county fair and old home week.

Most jubilant of the Giants was Dick Bartell, whose catch of a fly in short left field made the final putout of the telltale game.

Paddy Won't Make Any Statements

M. U. Coach Says Outcome Depends on Condition Of His Men

Milwaukee — (By) No predictions were forthcoming at Marquette university's football headquarters today as Coach Paddy Driscoll prepared to send his Golden Avalanche through its last light workout before tomorrow's battle with the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

"We just can't predict," Driscoll said. "I know our boys will give them a battle, but how much battle depends upon the performance of several players whose physical condition is a question mark."

Six potential starters who were on the casualty list have been given the team physician's permission to play against Wisconsin. They are Capt. Ray Sonnenberg, Len Raddatz, Reggie Goldagelli, backs; Herb Anderson, end, and Roy Schoemacher, center.

Two promising gridders, Dan Fens, guard, and Colonel Betz, quarterback, are definitely out of the picture with leg injuries. The entire squad of about 50 members, after dinner tonight at a local hotel, will go by bus to Fort Atkinson where it will remain until time to leave for Camp Randall stadium.

8-Team Ladies League To Bowl on 'Y' Alleys

An 8-team women's bowling league will be organized at the Y. M. C. A. and start its schedule Monday, Oct. 11, it was decided at a meeting of captains of the teams last night.

According to tentative plans, four of the teams will be from the Zwicker Knitting Mills, two from the Wisconsin Telephone company, one from the Appleton Superior Knitting Works, and one an independent group.

The teams will bowl on Wednesday and Friday evenings in double shifts starting at 7 o'clock and 9 o'clock. Captains who attended last night's meeting were Lila Bernhagen, Lillian Certei, Katherine Olson, Dorothy Arndt, Dorothy Lee, Angela Parker, and Marie Hitchler.

Arnold Kelly Wins Bat Honors in American Loop

ARNOLD KELLY, outfielder for the Post-Tuttle team, won the batting title in the American Softball league, it was announced last night at the league's annual banquet, at which Kelly was presented with a medal. He counted 22 hits in 48 times for an average of .458. Second place went to Cecil Furringer of the Machines with a .445 mark on 24 hits in 54 times at bat.

The best fielding honors were tied between Clemmy DeYoung, catcher for the Woolens, and Wilbur Strutz of the Post-Tuttles. Strutz also was the Babe Ruth of the loop with five homers. Howie Branchford of the Fox River was honored as the best pitcher.

Team batting honors for the season went to the Post-Tuttle with a .298 mark on 152 hits in 510 times to the plate. Fox River was second with .294.

Woolen Mills, the league champions, had a .923 fielding average for tops. They had 40 errors in 502 chances.

Last night's banquet was held at the Eagles hall and was featured by talks by W. F. Saeker, sponsor of the Post-Tuttle team.

N. E. W. Teams to Clash in Crucial Games This Week

the tackle berth vacated by Co-captain Dale Dodge who sustained a knee injury a few hours before the Messmer game last Saturday. Rucci, who has seen some service, in the first two games, will be assigned to Voekel's position.

Otherwise there will be no change in the starting cast as that which started against Messmer last Saturday and New London the previous Saturday.

Throughout this week's drills the grid mentor has been trying to develop more power in the right side of the line, the running attack during the first two games having been confined most to left side of the forward wall.

The coach has also been drilling his gridders in forward pass receiving. The Red Rockets have a good pass offense but the receivers haven't been snaring the ball as they should.

The fact that Shawano is the leading contender this year for the conference grid championship makes the game that much more important for the Christophers. The Shawano eleven is considered a big and fast squad headed by John Red, veteran back, who directs the team and does most of the passing from the fullback position.

Won First Games
Jim Barker, a veteran, is considered one of the best blocking backs in the conference, and Hugo Melfert and Bert Doan, will complete the backfield.

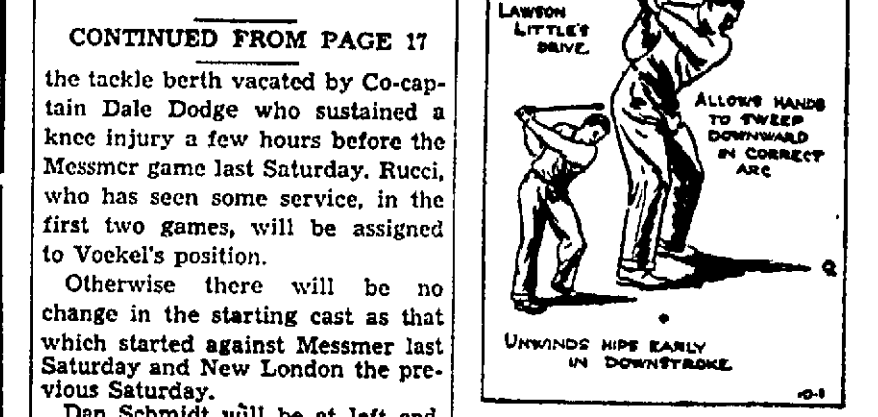

Both teams have annexed a conference victory so far this season. Neenah beat New London, 7 to 0, in its opening game, and Shawano whipped Kaukauna, last year's champions, 13 to 0.

Officials for the game will be R. J. Erditz, Oshkosh, umpire; A. C. Denney, Lawrence college, Appleton, referee, and Myron Seims, Appleton High school, head linesman.

KAWKS POINT FOR WIN
Kaukauna—The final hard practice of the week for Kaw gridders ended yesterday with another intensive all-round workout. Today a light signal drill will be held and then the squad will take on New London in its third Northeastern conference game here Saturday.

The practices of the week have been among the most satisfactory of the season for the Kawks who showed spirit lacking in the first several weeks. The contest with New London should be hard-fought.

START HIP TURN ON DOWN-SWING LEISURELY

The first downward movement after the club has reached the top of its swing is a turn of the left hip to the left. It is essential that the hips start their unwinding early in the stroke but there should be no measure of a rush in this performance. Instead the turn should be a gradual affair, made leisurely in conforming to the principles of a slow start on the downstroke. Thus executed it will not throw the mechanics of the swing out of its groove.

If the body revolves fast from the top of the swing, whirling the left hip around the clubhead is likely to be thrown out with it, coming onto the ball from the outside and causing a slice. However by gradually turning the hips the body will be in a correct position when the hitting area is reached with the left side out of the path of the stroke. This leisurely downswing in both hips and arms allows a conservation of the wrist cock until the proper moment, when it is released with a whipping motion forward of the right forearm.

with the decision going to the team which gets the breaks.

Some time was spent again last night with the second stringers and the reserves. The large number of substitutions in the Clintonville game showed that Coach Paul E. Little is building for next year as well as this season by giving reserves and freshmen a chance to play.

The second-string had Wolfe and Rohan, ends; Andrejaski, A. Hooymann, Fernal, Volte, and Powers in the line, McLaughlin, Watson, Van-evenhoven and Meyers in the backfield.

26 Vikes Leave For First Game In Midwest Play

Lawrence Meets Cornell at Mt. Vernon, Ia., Saturday

THE WEEK'S GAMES
Lake Forest at Beloit (night game Friday).
Central Teachers at Coe.
Principia at Knox.
Monmouth at Carthage.
Carleton at Ripon.
Lawrence at Cornell.

A SQUAD of 26 Lawrence college gridders and coaches Paul Derr and Adolf Dillon left this morning for Mt. Vernon, Ia., where tomorrow the Vikes are scheduled to meet Cornell college in a Midwest conference game. The Vikes will work out at Dubuque, Ia. late this afternoon and remain there over night moving to Mt. Vernon in the morning.

News that Evan Vande Walle, back, and Bill Masterson, reserve tackle, would be left at home and that Joe Maertzwiler would be used only sparingly, if at all, dropped Viking stock to a low point. Maertzwiler suffered a shoulder injury last week and if he isn't around to generally goad on the Vikings and to back up the line it will be just too bad.

Only one other conference game is scheduled for Saturday besides Lawrence and Cornell. It will have Carleton at Ripon with the winner just about slated to cop the Midwest championship. Carleton has another strong team and while Ripon will be tough this season, the Crimson must have had something taken out of it by the Marquette game last week and certainly can't be at its best.

Beloit takes on Lake Forest tonight in one of the non-conference games. Beloit is an improved team but Lake Forest is a veteran aggregation.

Newark Errors Cost Second Game

Misplays Mark Series as Columbus Repeats 5-4 Victory

Newark, N. J.—(U)—Fourteen misplays in two games gave the little world series, starting the foremost minor league clubs in baseball, the appearance today of a revival of Shakespeare's famous "Comedy of Errors."

They added an uncertain, sometimes comical, touch to the usually serious competition between the leading teams of the American association and International league and figured prominently in the action which gave Columbus a 2-game lead over Newark in the best-of-seven series.

Eight blunders, five by Newark, were made in the second game last night as the Columbus Red Birds came out ahead in a strange 11-inning engagement. The score was 5 to 4, the same as that by which the association champions won the opener Wednesday.

All five of Newark's misplays were damaging ones, a Columbus player being helped along toward a score with each of them.

Badgers Aren't Excited Over U. W. Grid Prospects

(This is the last in a series dealing with the prospects of major college football teams.)

BY GEORGE TAGATZ
ADISON — (U)—Faithful boosters of University of Wisconsin football teams have taken it on the chin through five dreary years of Big Ten campaigning and they refuse to get unduly excited about a big improvement in this year's team. "The play was spotty," said Coach Harry Stuhldreher after the Badgers defeated South Dakota State last Saturday 32 to 0.

"The defense was ragged," growled Madison sports writers, secretly proud.

"Sorry we disappointed you," blithely retorted the gridmen, "but after all, isn't this just a game?"

That's the spirit Stuhldreher taught them. It sustained them last year when they won only two non-conference games.

Tomorrow the Badgers play Marquette, rival for a mythical state championship. Marquette has won the last two games. A victory this year would go a long way toward making this a successful Wisconsin season.

Four Tough Games
Next in order are Chicago and Iowa, both pegged by Badger fans as certain losers if the Marquette clash doesn't cripple the squad. There, however, the optimism ends. Pittsburgh, Northwestern, Purdue and Minnesota may find the snarling Badger hard to handle, but a Wisconsin victory over any one of these powerful teams would be an upset.

Stuhldreher, starting his second season here, has developed a fast-breaking, deceptive offense, building plays on the Notre Dame pattern. The former quarterback of "Four Horsemen" fame has supplemented painstaking drills on blocking, tackling and other fundamentals with liberal tutoring on passes.

Some of the 17 lettermen are finding it difficult to hold regular berths in competition with capable sophomores challenging for each position.

At fullback, where Eddie Jankowski had first call last year, Howie Weiss and Herbert Paul, juniors, and two sophomores, Roland Nelson and Robert Pascoe, are listed. Weiss, lacking the rugged physique of Jankowski but a shifty runner, probably will carry the load.

Sophs Draw Praise
Seven sophomores, of whom Bill Schmitz and Anthony Gradinski repeatedly have drawn praise from coaches, are competing with four juniors. Roy W. Bellin, Bronko Jalesovich, Edward Misiak and Lowell Schellengarth, for halfback berths. Bellin and Schmitz, both fast and good passers, appear favorites for starting assignments.

In the quarterback spot Ervin Windward, one of five seniors on the squad, has the edge in competition with three sophomores and two juniors. His immediate understudy is Vincent Gavre, a junior. Both weigh about 185 pounds and block well.

First string linemen are the veterans Fred Benz and John Lochrie, ends; Eugene Brodhagen and Abe Sorek, tackles; Walter Cole and William Davies, guards, and Neil Pohl center. Experience alone, however, gave them preference in starting assignments.

Backs. New plays have been practiced all week.

The probable lineups for the teams:
St. Mary's: Picard, Spaulding, Koerner, Prunuske, Walburn, Lignorsky, Van Dyke, Schipferling, De Young, E. Grade, Resch.

Kimberly: LE Vanden B'gard, LT Van Dyke, LG Vander Zanden, C. Bernard, RG. Monnen, RT Van Susteren, RE La Berge, QB Parant, LH Gaffney, RH Weyenberg, FB De Leeuw.

Kimberly — Final arrangements were completed Thursday for the big game Friday evening when two great teams, Menasha, St. Mary's gridders, coached by Marvin Miller, and the Kimberly High school team, coached by Ray Hamann, will tangle under the lights at 8 o'clock at the ball park.

This game promises to be full of thrills as both teams are evenly matched and the breaks undoubtedly will be the deciding factor. Coach Miller had his team doing extensive work every night this week. Forward passing was the main objective of the Menasha team which has two very capable tossers.

Coach Hamann has thrown his machine into high gear for St. Mary's. The Papermakers have been scrimmaging under the lights as late as 10 o'clock. Stress was laid on forward passing, blocking, ball carrying and alertness on defense to stop the plunging St. Mary's.

Kimberly took three straight from the Squawkers. Gruett smashed the pins for a 200 game and 548 series to lead the Chiselers and McBain cracked out a 462 total to lead the Squawkers.

Three games were won by the Razzers over the Beefers. Stoebling's 555 was tops for the Razzers and Stout rolled a 484 series to pace the Beefers.

Kimberly took three straight from the Squawkers. Gruett smashed the pins for a 200 game and 548 series to lead the Chiselers and McBain cracked out a 462 total to lead the Squawkers.

Packer, Detroit Game May Set New Attendance Mark

At Aggett, Star of All-Star Tilt, Replaces Lloyd Cardwell

GREEN BAY — With prospects that another new attendance record for City stadium will be set, and the probability that both teams will be in their best condition of the season for the contest, the Green Bay Packers and Detroit Lions have only four days remaining before they renew their National Professional Football league series.

Officials for the game were announced today by Joe F. Carr, Columbus, Ohio, league president. Ed-ward J. Cochrane, Chicago, will referee; M. M. Meyer, Toledo, will be umpire; L. C. Ritter, Detroit, headlinesman, and R. J. Erdlitz, Oshkosh, field judge.

Although the advance sale of seats indicates another big throng for the contest, thousands still are available at the Legion building ticket headquarters, and Packer officials warned against rumors of a sellout, which as yet is not in prospect. They hope, however, that the record of 16,638 set at the Packer-Bear game will be broken.

Must Wait Year
Pro football fans who hoped to get a glimpse of Lloyd Cardwell, former Neb.-aska ace, will have to wait a year, as Cardwell has been suspended by the Lions, due to a leg injury, and will not play football this season in his place Detroit has acquired speedy, shifty Al Aggett, formerly of Michigan State. Aggett is rated one of the most promising professional backs in the country. He nearly ran Marquette ragged last year at Milwaukee and looked extremely flashy in the All-Star game at Chicago.

The Packers drove through their regular drill program today. With Bob Monnet again back to normal, Hank Bruder was returned to his blocking quarterback position, a spot he has held down for several seasons. Clarke Hinkle gives indication of being in top shape for the first time this year, following his recent illness, and all the men appear primed for a great showing against the Lions.

Hard Fought Game
Comparative statistics of the teams which battle here Sunday reveal that the game should be one of the tightest and most hard fought affairs of the season.

The opening whistle is scheduled for 2 o'clock.

Fond du Lac Boxing
Show Set for Oct. 13
Fond du Lac — First of a series of amateur boxing shows under the sponsorship of the Y. M. C. A. Boxing club will be held Oct. 13 at the Armory E. It has been announced by Nate Cohen, president of the club.

Preliminary plans for the show have been completed, seating arrangements have been made for approximately 1,400 persons. The main floor and balcony will be used, Cohen said. Tickets were placed on sale recently at the Y. M. C. A. and several business establishments in the city.

Harry Kunaseh and Dauber Jaeger, both of whom are well known in fight circles of the city, are matchmakers.

Several boxers from nearby cities have made arrangements to fight on the card. Among these are Al Robbins, Rob Hannis and Harold Fero, all of Oshkosh. Frank Duket of Marinette and Ernie Valent of Milwaukee.

Black Creek at Shiocton Sunday in Playoff Game

BASEBALL in the Outagamie County league will come one week closer to its end Sunday afternoon when the Shiocton and Black Creek teams battle at Shiocton for the second round championship of the loop. The winner also will earn the right to meet Dale, first round winner, for the league championship.

Shiocton, Black Creek and the Greenville Merchants tied for top honors in the second round. Last Sunday the Creekers and Merchants clashed on the latter's diamond in the first game of the playoff. It was a rather cool day and Dave Crowe's curves didn't work so well so the Creekers came away with a 10 to 8 decision as result of two runs in the ninth. The winners got 15 hits and the losers 9 and each team had 6 errors.

In Sunday's game Black Creek will use the same team that defeated the Merchants. John Miller will be on the mound and Charles LeShiocton is expected to pitch Mike Miller, no relation to his Black Creek rival, with Omholt catching. Smokey Lathrop, although troubled with a sore arm most of the season, will be available for relief duty.

The umpires will be Hooymann of Kimberly and Block of Appleton. The probable batting orders follow:

YIELDS "BLOWING" TITLE
Milwaukee — Always proud of his lung capacity, Coach Bill Chaudry of the Marquette university basketball team was forced to yield his "blowing" title at the recent Hill-top faculty picnic. By means of an accurate instrument which measures lung-power, the Rev. Gerard Smith, S. J., of the philosophy staff, won the championship. Chandler didn't feel so bad, however, upon learning that Father Smith is an ex-college football star.

At SPEEDS as high as 180 miles an hour — with the hot, coarse, abrasive salt grinding, tearing, scorching his tires — Ab Jenkins' special racer, weighing nearly three tons, pounded over the Bonneville Salt Beds last week at such terrific speed that it caused the surface to break up. Before the end of the run the track was so pitted and rough that it was almost impossible to hold the car on its course. Yet Jenkins set 87 new World, International and American speed records on Firestone Tires.

Building tires capable of establishing such records is made possible only because of patented Firestone manufacturing processes. These exclusive features enable Firestone to provide car owners with tires that are extra safe.

For the greatest protection of yourself and your family equip your car with Firestone TRIPLE-SAFE Tires. By TRIPLE-SAFE we mean —

1 PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING — The scientific tread design gives longer non-skid mileage and stops your car up to 25% quicker.

2 PROTECTION AGAINST BLOWOUTS — Firestone Tires run up to 28 degrees cooler because every fiber of every cord in every ply is saturated with liquid rubber by the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process. This counteracts the internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

3 PROTECTION AGAINST PUNCTURES — Two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread add strength to the tire and give extra protection against punctures.

Black Creek at Shiocton Sunday in Playoff Game

BASEBALL in the Outagamie County league will come one week closer to its end Sunday afternoon when the Shiocton and Black Creek teams battle at Shiocton for the second round championship of the loop. The winner also will earn the right to meet Dale, first round winner, for the league championship.

Shiocton, Black Creek and the Greenville Merchants tied for top honors in the second round. Last Sunday the Creekers and Merchants clashed on the latter's diamond in the first game of the playoff. It was a rather cool day and Dave Crowe's curves didn't work so well so the Creekers came away with a 10 to 8 decision as result of two runs in the ninth. The winners got 15 hits and the losers 9 and each team had 6 errors.

In Sunday's game Black Creek will use the same team that defeated the Merchants. John Miller will be on the mound and Charles LeShiocton is expected to pitch Mike Miller, no relation to his Black Creek rival, with Omholt catching. Smokey Lathrop, although troubled with a sore arm most of the season, will be available for relief duty.

The umpires will be Hooymann of Kimberly and Block of Appleton. The probable batting orders follow:

Rotarians Hear Talk on Knitting; Tour Neenah Mill

Manager of Plant Explains Operations at Meeting of Club

Neenah—After a brief explanation of the functions and operations of the plant, members of the Neenah Rotary club were directed on an inspection tour of the Jersid Knitting company following a noon meeting Wednesday.

W. B. Bellack, manager of the company, briefly explained the operations of the plant before the club members left the Valley Inn. He explained that the operation of knitting is not any more costly than weaving despite the fact that the ultimate cost of knitted material is more.

He pointed out that a better material is necessary to knit, and that the yarn must be strong enough and of good enough quality that when the small threads are formed by the various needles the yarn will not break and cause holes in the garment.

More Complicated

Machine knitting is an improvement over hand knitting, according to the manager, and it is much more complicated since one needle is required for each loop instead of having a number of loops on one needle as required in handwork.

The various patterns may be produced by using from two to four different colored yarns simultaneously, with some of the colors being knitted on the back and the others on the front and then reversing the process to obtain different patterns.

"The yarn is purchased in skeins and then worked through the knitting machines. The knitted wool is then steamed so that it will return to its normal size and then cut by hand and sewed with a special machine," Bellack pointed out. The product is then finished by hand.

Menasha—The Zephyrs of St. Mary high school will invade Kimberly for a football game starting at 8 o'clock tonight under the lights. St. Mary gridders will still be after their first victory of the season while the Kimberly team has not been defeated in two games.

Injuries continue to beset the St. Mary gridders. Lignofsky, tackle and heaviest man on the squad, injured his ankle and probably will not be in the starting lineup, although he will no doubt get into the game.

Coach Marvin Miller will probably start the same team which held the St. John of Little Chute squad to a 12 to 12 tie last week.

The Kimberly team took a 26 to 0 lead in its game with Manawa and was scored on only when Coach Ray Hamman sent substitutes into the game. Manawa then scored twice but was helpless when the regulars went back in. Most of the Kimberly scores came as the result of long runs. The St. Mary defense has been weak against this type of attack although it has tossed back threats from inside its own 10 yard line.

Water Pumpage at Neenah Reached Peak During July

25,800,000 - Gallon Total Much Higher Than August Figure

Neenah—Apparently, citizens of Neenah were heavy drinkers of water—during July.

Statistics of water pumpage taken at the Neenah water works during the summer show that twice as much water was consumed during July than in April and May, more than in June and August.

However, it must be admitted that much of the water pumped during July was used to furnish heated lawns with moisture.

During July there were 25,851,000 gallons pumped, which is an increase over that pumped in July of 1936 when 25,120,000 gallons were used, and considerably more than the amount used in July of 1935 when 17,837,000 gallons were pumped.

During April there were 13,371,000 gallons of water used in the city while in May the pumpage totaled 15,147,000 gallons, and in June it increased to 17,302,000 gallons.

There was a large decrease noted in August when 20,657,000 gallons were pumped, and although the figures for September have not been compiled, there will be continued decrease.

Menasha Firemen Respond to Eight Alarms in Month

Menasha—The number of calls answered by the city fire department during the month of September shows a decrease from the report of Paul Theimer, chief of the fire department. Only eight calls were answered during September compared with 11 during August.

The calls during the month were of a minor nature, grass fires, chimney fires, and similar calls. There was $10 fire damage reported in calls the fire department responded to. In addition there was a $10 loss reported in a fire to which the department was not summoned.

There were no out of city calls, no false alarms or rescue calls.

Police Report 31 Arrests in Month

12 Charged With Drunkenness and Disorderly Conduct at Neenah

200 War Veterans Receive Notices of CCC Enrolment Days

Neenah — Two hundred World War veterans, whose names are on the active files of the Neenah-Menasha office of the state employment service received letters today informing them that enrolments in the veterans contingency of the civilian conservation corps will be held on Oct. 6 and Oct. 27, Harry D. Gates, manager, reported.

The letters were sent to 'Twin City' veterans by the employment office upon the suggestion of the state veterans administration. Gates said.

The letters stated that there were changes in eligibility requirements — that honorable discharges from armed forces during the World War has been amended to include honorable discharges from drafts prior to Nov. 11, 1918, and that for re-enrolment the veteran must have had an honorable discharge on or before April 30, of this year.

The letters requests that those veterans interested may call at the employment office at 510 1/2 N. Commercial street, for further information.

Haufe, Luft Will Shoot Sunday for Gun Club Trophy

Final Match of Series Will Be Held at Lakeview Park

Neenah — The Twin City Rod and Gun club trapshooting championship will be determined at 1:15 Sunday afternoon at Lakeview park when Carl Haufe, Neenah, and J. W. Luft, Oshkosh, will shoot for the club trophy.

Sunday's event will be the final match of the series. Only two matches have been held, but because the third match was postponed there will only be three instead of the scheduled four. The reason that the fourth match will not be held is because the following Sunday hunting season opens.

Haufe and Luft are tied for first place in the shoot, each nimrod having won a first and second place as well as hit the same number of targets.

Haufe took first place when he broke 40 pigeons in 50 shots at a distance of 21 yards in the second match, and Luft took the first match when he broke 41 targets in 50 tries.

Luft took second place in the second match when he broke 38 targets, and Haufe broke 39 targets to take second place in the first match.

A large number of spectators are expected to witness the championship event, and 16-yard, 50-shot trapshooting event will be staged following the trophy shoot.

yacht's crew was imprisoned in the hurricane-tossed steel hull for nine hours.

He insisted, however the most dismaying moment of the voyage was the discovery that what they believed was their last case of rum was just a tank of lard.

"We were at the mercy of the waves for nine hours," Uglow said, "while water rushed in on us like a Niagara. We were just a ship of steel—under water most of the time —with gigantic waves breaking over us."

The good-natured cook said "it was every man for the pumps" when the trim craft broke her tow line.

"We worked frantically, the sweat rolling off us, during that nine hour hurricane which none of us will ever forget. During the whole time it was impossible to raise sail or even go on deck.

"At last the hurricane passed over and it was possible for the men to go on watch on deck, but the seas were still so rough it was necessary for them to be attached to lifelines and lashed to the wheel during their hours on duty. Even then they were waist deep in water for many hours."

Decision Made at Scout Executive Board Meeting Last Night

The invitation from Dr. J. M. Donovan of Neenah to hold the valley Boy Scout jamboree in that city next June was accepted by the executive board of the valley council at its meeting last night in the Conway hotel. It will be the first jamboree held in Neenah.

The board referred two matters to the camp committee, the first on the naming of Camp 1 and Camp 2 at Gardner Dam and the second discussed before the board by Albert Weber of Shawano, on the proposed cutting of certain timber at the camp.

Each board member will bring a scoutmaster as his guest to the next meeting which will be held late this month. It was decided at last night's session. The members voted appreciation to the three leaders of the valley contingent to the national jamboree at Washington, D. C., this summer, J. Wesley Olsen, Neenah, and E. E. Thomas and Don Cole of Appleton.

Herb Hellig spoke on the training session which will be held at Gardner Dam Oct. 9 and 10 and Waldo Friedland of Menasha reported national approval of the honor system used by the valley council.

Parts for Trailers, Brooder Houses for Chicks Emerge From Graveyards of Wrecked Automobiles

BY DON ANDERSON

Some day that new, shiny automobile of yours with the commanding horn that looks so pretty in the night won't be so new and shiny any more.

Some day the axle might ride to Nevada underneath a trailer, the engine might be furnishing power for a prosaic wood-cutting machine, and the body might be a home for baby chicks on a Fox river valley farm. Some day. . .

That day will come through a natural or unnatural course. Meaning that your car will be stripped down and put to such varied and homely uses as described above for one of two reasons: first, because of old age, or second, because of an accident in which it was damaged beyond advisable repair.

Someone must be responsible for tearing aged or smashed cars down and seeing to it that the parts find their way into useful occupations—and someone is, the auto wrecker.

He is the one who will buy your new, shiny car some day when it gets decrepit or tangles with a tree.

Here's Actual Case

Let's take an actual case and see just how it is done:
A new 2-door sedan of a low-priced, popular make that has had an affair with a telephone pole up the Clintonville way some time back is purchased by an Appleton auto wrecking company.

The left side of the car is badly battered, where the pole left its heavy scars in the metal, broke windows, and shoved the frame in. There's nothing that can be done about that.

But the motor, except for minor repairs that must be made, is still sound. And there are other parts of the car that didn't take much of a hammering and are undamaged.

The auto wrecker has a definite business problem on his hands: to find a market for the usable parts of the machine and extract the profit that must come if any business is to survive. He's solving the problem right this minute, because the car hasn't been entirely disposed of yet.

Motor Goes to Truck
The engine has been sold to a man who owns several trucks. He'll build it into one of those trucks to replace a motor that has taken too much punishment and is just about down for the count.

The right side of the car was unmarred and the auto wrecker has found a place for the door on that side. A car of the same model that was damaged at Park Falls by fire when someone dropped a cigarette inside is standing in his shop.

The interior of the car was ruined by the flames and must undergo considerable repairs. The machine is unharmed and the only damage to the body, except to the finish, is on the right door which was warped by the heat. This door must come off, and in its place will go the one from the right side of the automobile that hit the pole near Clintonville.

Like Puzzle
Then one day a fellow driving a third car like these first two comes along. His machine has been hit a lusty blow from behind and the rear end isn't exactly attractive looking. The auto wrecker simply lifts the back end out of the smashed car and fits it onto this third machine and the fellow drives happily away.

It's like a crossword puzzle. Disposition of the smaller parts of the car will be easy. A man who owns a trailer will want a chromium bumper for it, or perhaps a couple wheels with tires, or maybe one or two panes of glass.

The jump-up type of seats in front might find a buyer in the owner of a delivery truck, who wants a seat he can move in when he has someone riding with him and out when he needs all available space for the load.

The springs, chassis, lights, fenders, and hosts of smaller articles will be sold as replacement parts.

Cars can't last forever and, like humans, they reach their end by accident and by the natural wearing out process of the years. But when a car is smashed or falls to pieces, it just doesn't disappear, and here is where the auto wrecker steps in. He buys the machines, and sells their useful parts.

The picture on the lower left gives you an idea of what he has to work with: a new car that will never run again because it ran into an argument it couldn't finish.

On the upper left is a general scene on the premises of an Appleton auto wrecking company, with the crumpled, burned, or just worn out cars and parts that have been ripped out of them strewn about.

A motor, taken from a wreck and "knocked down" for parts is shown in the picture on the upper right. Directly above is a pile of rims off cars that were ruined in crashes or junked because they couldn't last any longer. (Post-Crescent Photos)

The crushed and broken sections will be just plain junk.

Pretty soon this car is going to be lots of places all at once.

From Used Car Lots

Cars twisted and torn in accidents are not the only ones in which the auto wrecker deals. A good percentage of his merchandise comes off automobiles sold to him by used car dealers, machines known as "junkers" which are so worn that their greatest value lies in dismantlement.

The remark about bodies of stripped cars being used as brooders isn't just a gag. An Appleton auto wrecker said yesterday that he has sold them to farmers for that purpose.

Besides being placed in trucks and other cars, motors have a number of other uses. They are installed in tractors and boats and provide the push for sawing wood. A man in this vicinity has an auto engine running a stone crusher and another employs one in drilling wells. When motors are irreparably damaged in thundering, head-on crashes, they are salvaged for their iron.

Dashboard equipment is taken out and the instruments sold singly or in one unit. There is always a call for the numerous and handy nuts and bolts and connections. The cushions are used in boats, cottages, and trailers and placed underneath the family apple tree as outdoor seats.

Become Trailer Parts
Trailer colonists, by the way, are among the auto wrecker's best customers. Besides cushions, they buy axles, window winders, glass, fenders, wheels, tires, springs, and lights.

A Menasha man this summer purchased several cast-off gas tanks for storing water in his home on wheels.

Occasionally a man with a mechanical bent will build a car entirely of parts selected from an auto wrecker's assortment. It might be called a "cur," and sometimes is an astonishing collection. There is in Appleton, for example, one of that ilk which has a motor from one make of car, a radiator from another, a rear end from a third, a ring gear and pinion from a fourth, and a home-made body.

On the auto wrecker's premises the wrecks of the highways, the crumpled reminders of swift driving, uncertain curves, blinding lights, and reeling heads.

Big One Is Smashed

"We've got our latest smashes over in this corner of the lot," the auto wrecker says, guiding you past heaps of rims and windowless bodies. "This one came in not long ago."

It is a low, rakish 1937 coupe of powerful, 8-cylinder design. This one also hit a telephone pole, the auto wrecker says, near Waupaca. The impact blasted the frame between the windshield and the left front window loose and laid it back, leaving the stubs of the broken steering wheel sticking out.

"This car had an expensive radio in it," the auto wrecker tells you. "The crash knocked all the tubes out and bent the case. Well, I just whacked the case back in shape, put the tubes back in, and she ran swell. I sold it, too."

This old sedan, with the radiator pushed back and the headlights cockeyed, killed a horse. And that frightfully twisted, and snarled wreckage over there, all that remains of a $3,000 car, sideswiped an oncoming machine on a curve. The top is ripped away, the frame wrenched into weird angles, and the front seat knocked bow-shaped. The fellow lived, but two in the other car were killed, the auto wrecker relates.

"The new cars might have all-steel bodies and special safety features that the old ones didn't have," he says, "but with the high-speed accidents nowadays, they're being torn to pieces just as much as ever. We don't worry about not having cars to work on."

Flashes of Life

By the Associated Press
Dresden, N. D.—Childless Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Williams planned to adopt three children, but they have five today.

The parents of the five, at Granite

Falls, Minn., offered two boys for adoption. That was fine with the Williams.

When they left, however, three bright-eyed girls frowned and pleaded for their two brothers. The Williams took them along too. The youngsters range from one to 11 years of age.

TO INTRODUCE NORTHERN TISSUE (but the time is limited!)

● You not only get a bargain in Northern Tissue—you get a better, softer, safer tissue too! Let us tell you why:

All tissues are made of wood. But wood is part good and part bad. The good part is called Cellulose—the soft, downy fibers that Celanese undergarments are made of.

The bad part is called Lignone. It is fine in pasteboard boxes—but not in a toilet tissue. It makes paper coarse, harsh.

Ordinary tissues contain Lignone. But—there's no Lignone in Northern Tissue! It is 100% pure Cellulose! Ask for it—at your dealer's. But hurry, while stocks last!

Junior Patrols Are Organized at Kimberly Schools

Young Officers Guide
Traffic at Public and
Holy Name Schools

Kimberly — More than thirty-five pupils of the seventh and eighth grades of the Holy Name school are junior police patrol boys. Arnold Theyssen is captain of the group and Peter Roovers is lieutenant. Each day at noon and afternoon when school is out these young police officers guide the younger children across the street at the nearest intersection where they march across in groups. Each boy on the force wears a white belt and a silver badge.

Junior police were organized at the Holy Name school by the sisters three years ago. During that period no accidents have resulted. A motor publication carried a picture of the group this spring and told of the Kimberly boys as being one of the most enthusiastic school boy patrol units in northern Wisconsin.

At the public school a patrol system also is being organized. Four boys now have charge and are on duty at 11:45 each morning and at 3:20 in the afternoon when the grades are dismissed. They also wear white belts and badges. The four police are: Jack Van Lieshout and Charles Verbeeten, high school students, Junior Coates and H. Dufame, eighth grade pupils.

The junior police at the Holy Name school include: Gerald Brockman, Kenneth Dietzen, Joseph Dictus, Raymond Ebben, Frank Fleweger, John Frassetto, Marvin Friebe, Alphonse Kneepkins, Frank Koko, Lyle Krueger, Jack Lynch, Gerald Mautha, Fred Olson, Francis Peters, Anton Pruc, Joseph Santkyl.

Anthony Van Himbergen, Joseph Van Nuland, William Van Sanbeck, Eugene Van Vrede, Vincent Vanden Boogaard, James Vanden Boom, Norbert Vanden Heuvel, Russell Weyenberg, Robert Willis, and Robert Zoegers.

Group No. 2 of the Ladies Aid society will hold a bake sale at 10 o'clock Saturday morning at the Vandenberg and Verbeeten store. Mrs. Nina Hockenbrock is chairman of the sale.

The Ladies Aid society of the Presbyterian church will meet at the home of Mrs. Ben Trichei, Wednesday afternoon.

Legion, Auxiliary Install Officers

Joint Ceremonies are Held
At Lions Clubhouse
On Long Lake

Clintonville — Joint installation ceremonies for the Oscar J. Tilleson post of American Legion and its auxiliary took place Wednesday evening at the Lions clubhouse on Long Lake. Marshall Graft of Appleton, past state commander, conducted the installation ceremonies for the legion. Kenneth Darling was installed commander to succeed Earl J. Moldenhauer. Other officers are Miles Dempsey and John Ever, junior and senior vice commanders; Gilbert Felslow, adjutant; and Eric Peterson, finance officer. Mr. Graft also presented past commanders' buttons to Earl Moldenhauer, Gilbert Buckbee and Evan Vaughn, who served as commanders of the local post during the last three years.

Mrs. William T. Luedke was installed president of the auxiliary, succeeding Mrs. Arthur Steenbock, who served for the last year. Other officers include: Mrs. Gilbert Felslow and Mrs. John Ewers, first and second vice presidents; Mrs. H. H. Stein, secretary; Mrs. Edwin Hangartner, treasurer; Mrs. Gilbert Buckbee, chaplain; Mrs. Alfred Buehrens and Mrs. Charles Laux, sergeants-at-arms. Mrs. Eric Peterson has been appointed leader of the Junior auxiliary. The installation was conducted by Mrs. Leo Kesting, a past president.

Entertainment was provided by a program which included assembly singing, instrumental solo by Russell Shannon; vocal solos by Miss Beverly Winchester and Miss Betty Spiegel. The soloists were accompanied at the piano by Miss Dorothy Fumelle. The evening closed with the serving of a plate-lunch.

Miss Louise Schroeder, assistant postmaster at the Clintonville post-office, is spending this week at Nashville, Tenn., where she is attending the National Association of Postal Supervisors convention. Miss Schroeder was accompanied on the trip by Miss Helen Knapstein of New London.

The Senior Young People's Society of St. Martin Lutheran church held an old-time party Tuesday evening at the school hall.

The Continental Divide between Colorado and Canada formed the western limits of the Louisiana Purchase.

Clintonville—The boys and girls glee clubs have been organized at the high school under the direction of Miss Edith Gray. Officers chosen by the boys' group are: Howard Bovee, president; Jack Martin, secretary-treasurer; Boone Miller, librarian; and Miss Elizabeth Stubenvoll, accompanist. James Bohr, Albert Zins and Russell Shannon were appointed members of the property committee.

The girls glee club has as its officers: June Abrahamson, president; Donabelle Schroeder, secretary-treasurer; Elizabeth Stubenvoll, librarian; Dorothy Fumelle, accompanist.

Mrs. Bernard Knapp entertained the Thrift club at its September meeting Thursday afternoon at her home on S. Main street. Three tables of five hundred were followed by a luncheon. Those who received prizes were: Mrs. William Below, first; Mrs. Arthur Steenbock, second; and Mrs. Henry Zuhse, third. Members of the club and their husbands will meet for their October meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Zuhse on Oct. 12.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Shultz and the latter's sister, Mrs. George Spiegel, will leave Saturday for Detroit, Mich., to spend a week with Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Zalsman. Mrs. Zalsman is the former Miss Nellie Falkman of this city, a sister of Mrs. Shultz and Mrs. Spiegel.

Index of Favorite Sports Sought by Committee at 'Y'

460 'Interest Finders' are Mailed to Young Men Throughout City

Pointing towards an enlarged physical education program for young men this year, the young men's committee from the Y. M. C. A. has mailed 460 'interest finders' throughout the city to find out what "Y" activities are most popular.

Two mimeographed sheets are enclosed in each letter, one publicizing the bowling alley which have been recently improved and modernized and the other carrying the proposed physical education program.

Opposite the name of each activity is a square in which young men receiving the letters are asked to place checks, indicating their favorites. When these are returned, the committee will study them and arrange their program to suit the greatest number of participants. The committee, composed of Charles Widsten, chairman, Frank Hammer, Art Stremel, and Harvey Rectz, works with Ray Risch, physical education director of the Y. M. C. A.

Says Badger Moonshine Is Sent to Twin Cities

Minneapolis—(P)—Testimony that a "good part" of the untaxed moonshine whiskey supplied Minneapolis and St. Paul comes from the Somerset, Wis., area, was given in federal court here Thursday by A. G. Kosak, alcohol tax unit investigator.

Kosak's assertion came when he was questioned in arguments for suppression of evidence against J. C. Allison, Minneapolis Negro charged with removal and conceal-

Ku Klux Klan Issue Is 'Red Herring,' Ickes Says

Washington—(P)—Ku Klux Klan charges revolving around Hugo L. Black's appointment to the supreme court were characterized Thursday by Secretary of Interior Ickes as "the same old red herring made to serve various purposes on different occasions."

Secretary Ickes charged that Herbert Hoover received Klan support when he was elected to the presidency in 1928 "and nobody seemed to worry about it, either."

Rules Union Party Eligible to Have Ticket Next Year

Loomis Says Petition for Place on Ballot Should Be Granted

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau. Madison—The Union party, political vehicle of congressman William Lemke and Father Charles Coughlin, is entitled to a place on the ballot in Wisconsin elections next year, Attorney General Orlando S. Loomis ruled today in an opinion to Secretary of State Theodore Dammann.

Loomis wrote that the new party, which last fall ran Joseph Walsh of Grant county for governor in Wisconsin, had met the statutory requirements, and that its petition for a place and a ticket in the 1938 canvass should be granted.

The attorney general pointed out that the party in the 1936 general election polled in excess of 1 percent of the total vote for both governor and for president, and that revised state laws require only that a party poll at least 1 per cent of the total vote cast for governor at the last preceding election.

Formerly the Wisconsin law required that the basis of the percentage be the vote of the presidential elector receiving the highest number of votes in the preceding presidential election.

gesticulating angrily. Fanning's visitor was a rough-looking man of enormous physical strength. His shoulders were so heavy they were bowed forward, and his big hands hung almost to his knees.

Neill retired from the door, leaving it exactly as he had found it. The telephone rang, and he picked it up. A man's voice said cautiously over the wire:

"That you Pres?"

Neill subdued his voice to a husky whisper. "Right."

"What's the matter?" asked the voice sharply.

"Nothing. There are others in the room here."

"Oh! I just wanted to tell you that everything is all right. The old girl hasn't squawked."

"Who did you say?"

"I say the old girl hasn't squawked."

"Good!"

"Shall I see you tomorrow as agreed?"

"Right. Where are you now?"

Again he drew a blank. "Read's drugstore So long."

"So long."

Neill hung up. Eyster might be mad, be even the few words he had heard were enough to confirm the fact that Fanning was a crook! As yet however, he had secured no concrete evidence to lay before Janet. He looked around the room sharply. There was no time to make a search.

"One Last Spot"

Fanning returned with his made-to-order laugh saying: "These darn realtors call on you at all hours own. Certainly it was superfine whiskey.

"Let's go," said Fanning.

His last act before leaving was to take a packet of 100 new $5 bills from a drawer of the bureau and drop it in his wallet. "Just an evening's pleasure," he said.

"Well, you're no piker," said Neill.

They descended in the elevator and hailed a taxi at the door of the hotel. "To the Belvedere," Fanning said to the driver. "That's where we pick up the girls," he added to Neill.

From Hanover street they turned into Fayette and then into Charles.

The pavement of Baltimore's best street were almost empty now. Fanning began to tell another funny story, but his voice seemed far away.

Neill felt great. He had never found the streets at evening so beautiful. A delicious languor was stealing through his limbs. He seemed to be reclining on a fleecy cloud that was being wafted away into space.

By a certain tone in Fanning's voice he realized that he had come to the point of his story, and he laughed politely. Fanning began another.

Meanwhile Neill was being waited farther and farther away from all earthly cares. He passed into unconsciousness.
